LETTUCE from our Readers

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS TO CRACKED LETTUCE, 235 PARK AVENUE SOUTH, N.Y., N.Y. 10003

Dear CRACKED,

After reading her interview with the INSURANCE KING, I have come to the conclusion that Nanny Dickering deserves a lot more credit than she gets.

Russell Dorcas
Columbia, S.C.

Dear Russell,

Nanny's been telling her banker that for years.

Dear CRACKED,

Nobody ever writes in to say anything nice about your COLLECTORS' EDITIONS — including the new one on Disaster Movies. And now that I think of it, there are so few traditions left in this country, why break this one. Forget the whole thing.

Rusty Genevie
Pinellas Park, Fl.

Dear Rusty,

Sure — remind the printer not to run this letter.

Dear CRACKED,

How can anyone resist buying CRACKED? The free gag stickers, cover stickers and postcards are worth the price of the magazine.

Harold Hopkins
San Francisco, Ca.

Dear Harold,

Wait until you see what else we're coming up with!

Dear CRACKED Staff,

Heard that your accountant found out about the cut-rate subscriptions that you sold when he was on vacation. Honest, I didn't tell him.

Jerry Cushing
Montgomery, Ala.

Dear Jerry,

Somebody out there did! And he knows who he is! Just because of him we don't get lunch hours for 3 weeks.

Dear CRACKED,

Your "Make-Your-Own-T-Shirt Kit" in KING-SIZED CRACKED #11 was THE BEST!! Thank you. Thank you. Thank you.

Thelma Wright
Alamogordo, New Mexico

Dear Thelma,

No need to grovel. The fact that you composed your entire letter from the iron-on transfers in the kit and mailed it to us on a t-shirt is enough thanks.

Dear CRACKED,

Your GUIDE TO JOGGING came in very handy yesterday. Reading it gave me the perfect excuse for not going out and doing it. Thanks.

Linda Winters
Rawlins, Wyoming

Dear Linda,

Why not make it a daily habit of running your eyes through the articles here. Think how healthy they'll be after six months.

Dear CRACKED,

I am an avid canoeist and rolled when I read your CRACKED GUIDE TO CANOEING. However, I would like to point out to your readers that there were a few minor inaccuracies in it and I am enclosing a short list.

Billy Boyden
Wrentham, Mass.

Editors Note: Due to a lack of space, Mr. Boyden's list will not appear here, but instead, appear as a two volume encyclopedia in your bookstores next year.

Dear CRACKED,

I know you get all kinds of people writing to you, desperately trying to get their letters printed in your terrific magazine but would you please inform me on how one knows for sure if his letter is acceptable?

William Clark, Jr.
Omaha, Neb.

Dear William (Jr.),

Congratulations! You are now highly qualified to answer your own questions.

Dear CRACKED,

I really like your magazine, but I can't remember how I got started reading it.

Don Ross
Austin, Tx.

Dear Don,

No need to worry because you probably started the same way everyone else does — with the table of contents.

Dear CRACKED,

What does C + R + A + C + K + E + D equal?

Ernie Bosch
Tampa, Fl.

Dear Ernie,

According to our humor and wit development research department the actual answer would depend entirely on the square root of the jovial tendency as related to the comical interpretation of the readers, hence all funny tendencies shall be understood as such.

Dear CRACKED,
THE GREAT AIRLINE WAR really
CRACKED me up!

Robert Fonte
St. Petersburg, Fl.

Dear Robert,
Let's hope you weren't flying at the time!

Gentlemen,
I can not remember laughing so hard, or so long. Thank you for the
"CRACK-UP."

Sly Stallone

Dear Sly,
Wow! We made you laugh! We can't remember laughing so hard, or crying so hard, or raving so loud for "Rocky." The best picture ever! Give us more!

Dear CRACKED,
The CRACKED Cover stickers in issue #146 are fantastic. When are we going to get more? I want the complete collection.

Chuck Johnson
Memphis, Tenn.

Dear Chuck,
We'll be giving you loads of them in upcoming issues. Keep watching!

Dear CRACKED,
The Cover stamps that you gave us as a free bonus in CRACKED #146 were truly great. Your magazine just keeps getting better and better. What's gotten into you lately?

Chuck Taber
Wrentham, Mass.

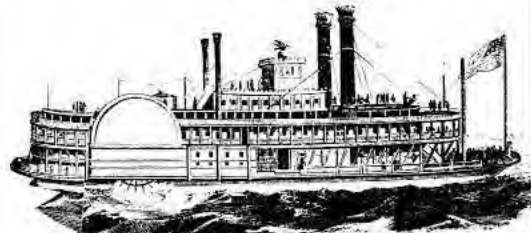

Dear Chuck,
About 500,000 new readers — and we aim to keep each and every one of them happy!

Dear CRACKED,
WHEN THE COUNTRY RUNS OUT OF WATER really hit home here in Colorado. As I write this letter, things are becoming so bad that three water beds were kidnapped last week and held for ransom.

Sharon Farell
Denver, Colo.

Dear Sharon,
What are they asking for their return — 5 lbs. of coffee??

NEXT ISSUE — CRACKED #148
ON SALE AT YOUR FAVORITE NEWSSTAND
NOVEMBER 8TH

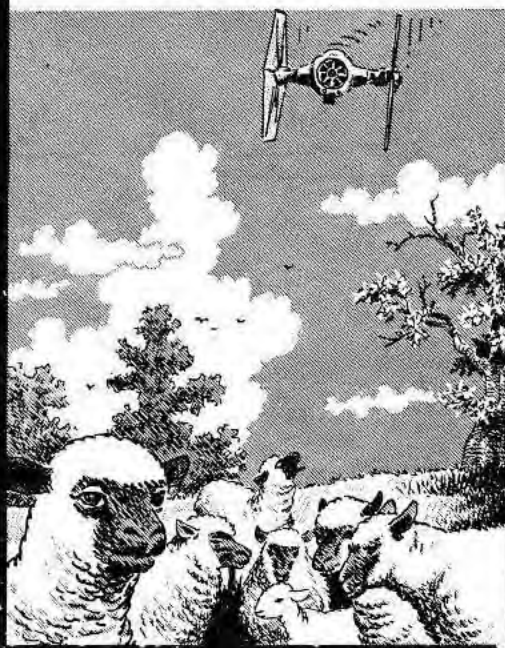

A long, long time ago in a galaxy far away . . . Well, you remember that opening. It kicked off the smash movie that's still filling box office vaults all over the world. And CRACKED predicts that it won't be long before the whole crew returns again in yet a second feature, namely the sequel, which would go under the clever title of

STAR WARZ II

O.O. SEVERIN

It would all begin in a sheep meadow on the planet Crackabor.

What evil lurks above this passive meadow?

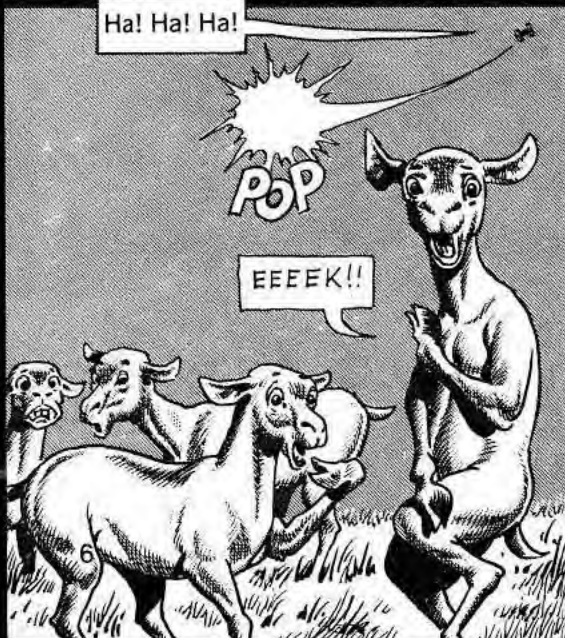

It is I; Dark Badar! You all thought I was dead people of Crackabor — but this should make you aware of my existence.

HMMMMMM

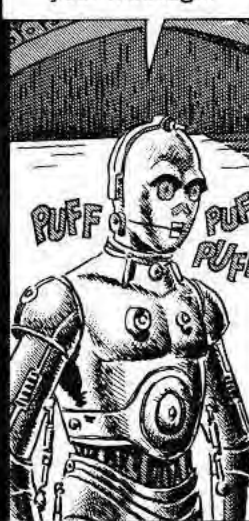

Ha! Ha! Ha!

POP

EEEEK!!

Princess Leotard, we rushed over as soon as we received your message.

RUFF RUFF RUFF

CPO, the sheep of Crackabor are being mysteriously dewooled. You must tell your owner, Luck Skystalker, that I'm afraid it's the handywork of — Dark Badar!

Bleep blip blip bleep blip.

Yes, I'm certain it's Dark. Just look outside. The sun went down an hour ago and there's nothing out there but . . .

Dark — yes!

CRACKED is bringing an upside-down cake as a going away present to a passenger on the S.S. Poseidon!

I've been doing some investigating into this matter and it's true — Dark Badar plans to blast all the sheep of Crackabor with his Intergalactic Dewooler until there's not an unshorn sheep left.

But without wool, no coats can be made. And without coats, the people of Crackabor will freeze their little hoofies off come winter.

Bleep blip
bleep blip
chinkle.

No, RD2. I'm afraid passing out bowls of chicken soup won't tide the planet over until spring!

UNCLE JAB'S USED DROID LOT

SALE

It's up to us, droids. And, if we're lucky, Hand Solow and his co-pilot Chewie will help us.

And if they won't?

Better make sure RD2's recipe for the soup is ready.

ONE WAY

INITIALS ON P.S.S.
ARE A WASTE... IF YOU DON'T KNOW WHO
YOU ARE BY BEDTIME...
FORGET IT!

And that's the situation, Solow. Will you help go after Badar? The princess will pay you.

I don't care. Last time I nearly got killed. There's some things I just won't do for money!

I'm prepared to offer you 50,000 gazongas.

And then there's some things I'll only do for a lot of money. Let's go!

Great! Let's get over to the... what's that? — RD2, you're not transmitting another message... or having a visual gas attack, are you?

Greetings!

Bend Oakie Finoakie! You've returned! But you look kind of pale.

Pale! I've been dead for 9 months... and you know what that can do for your tan!

What brings you back anyway?

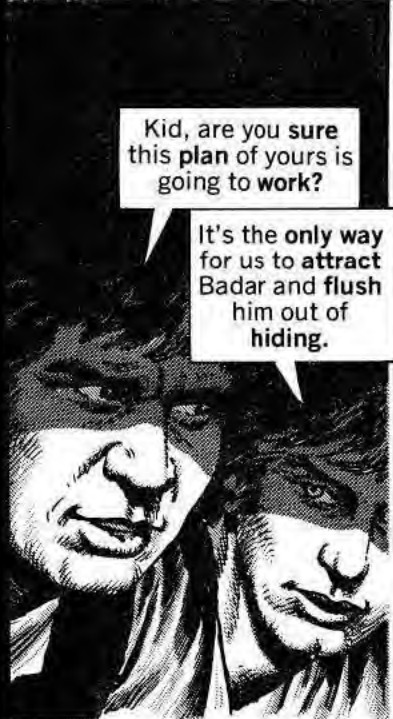

The Force!

We're not gonna start that again.

AND a cut of the profits from this sequel.

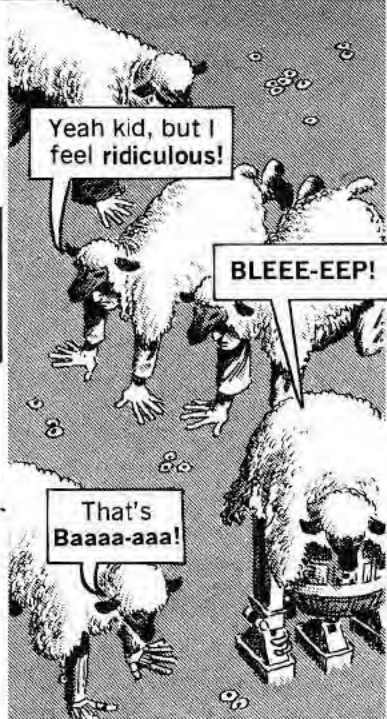

You're back for money?

Well, the Force is powerful, but not very wealthy.

Kid, are you sure this plan of yours is going to work?

It's the only way for us to attract Badar and flush him out of hiding.

Yeah kid, but I feel ridiculous!

BLEEE-EEP!

That's Baaaa-aaa!

Luck! Up in the sky!

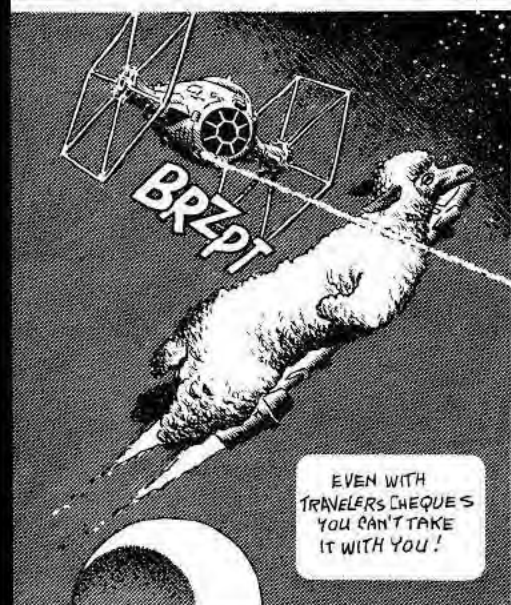

That line sounds familiar!

It's Badar! And he's coming towards the field! — Into the sheep!

You mean the ship.

The sheep is a ship!

CRACKED is asking to have your thermometer recalled because you found traces of mercury in it!

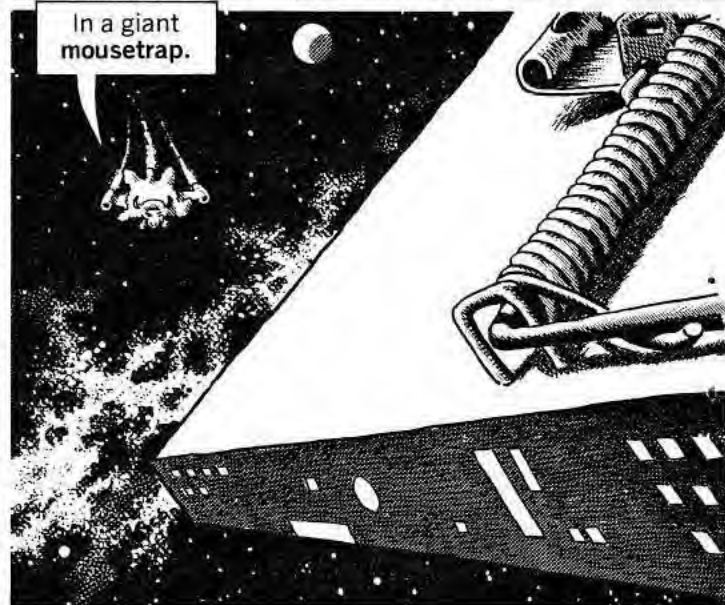

EVEN WITH TRAVELERS CHEQUES YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU!

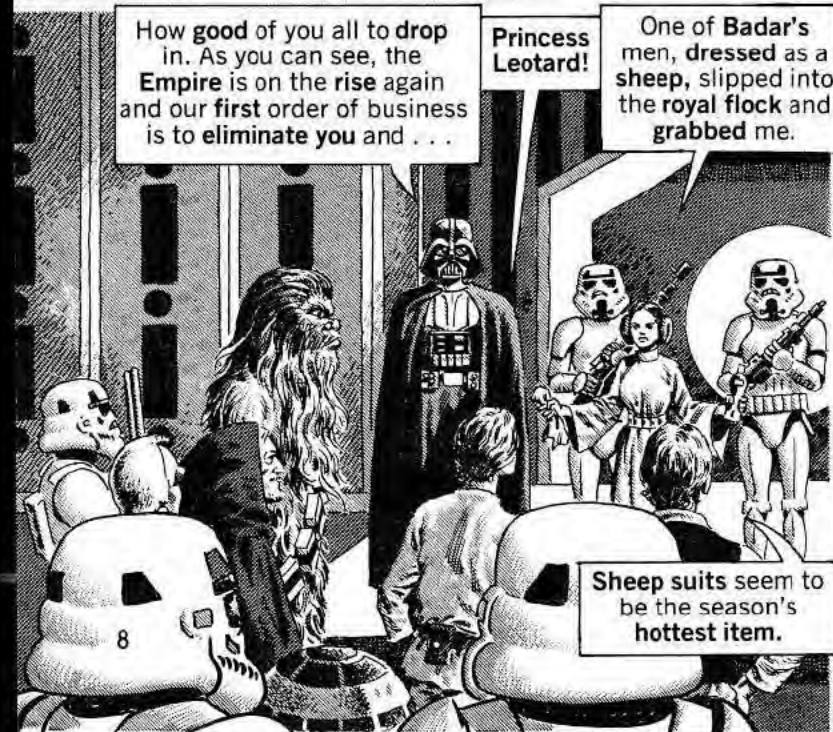

One more pass and I think I can get him.

Afraid not kid — we've been trapped!

In a giant mousetrap.

How good of you all to drop in. As you can see, the Empire is on the rise again and our first order of business is to eliminate you and ...

Princess Leotard!

One of Badar's men, dressed as a sheep, slipped into the royal flock and grabbed me.

Sheep suits seem to be the season's hottest item.

And now... goodbye!

IT'S NO WONDER A WOMAN'S WORK IS NEVER DONE!! SHE'S WAITING FOR HER HUSBAND TO DO IT!

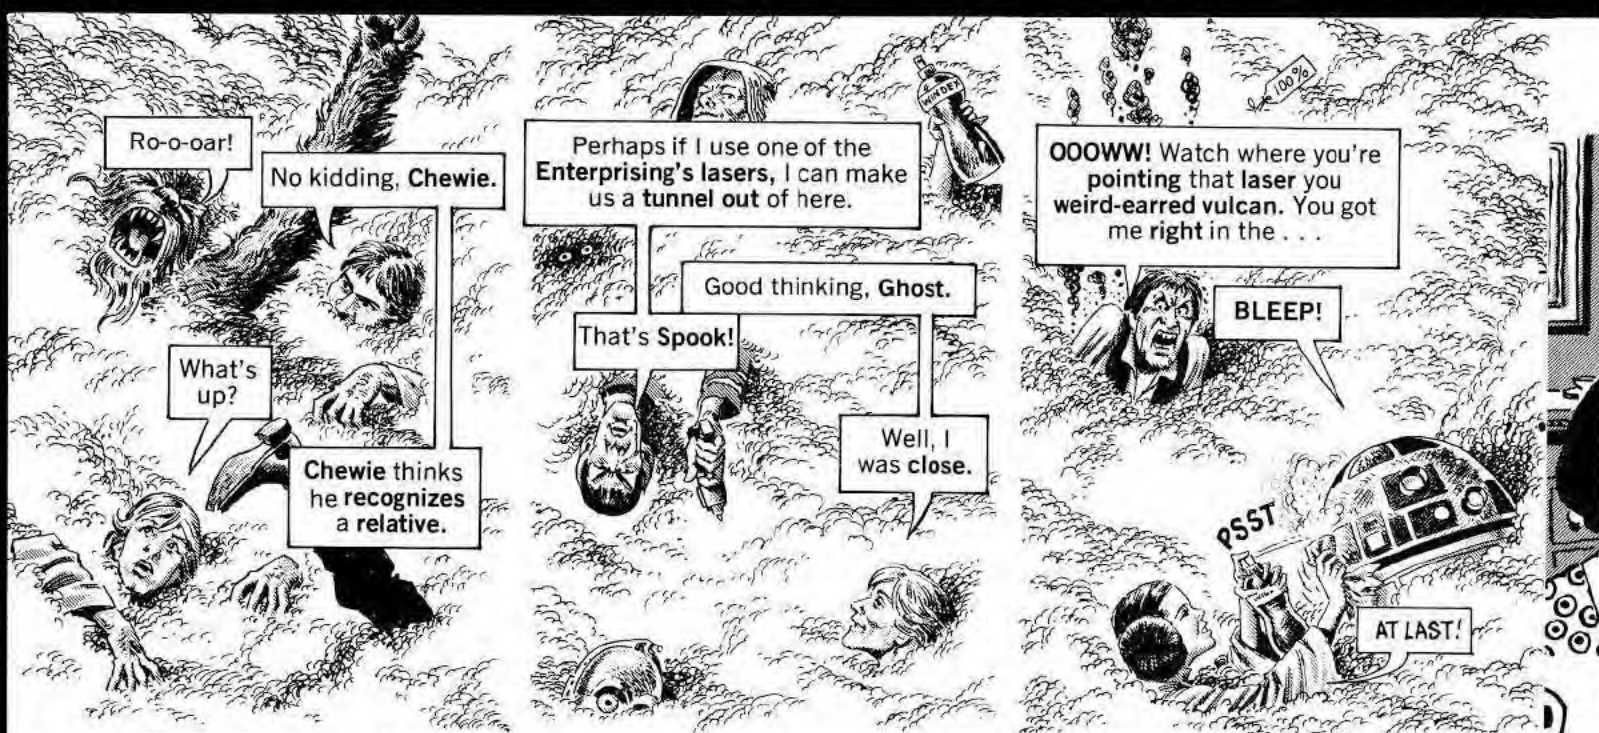

BUZZ-BUZZ

DON'T TELL ME... IT'S STARSKY AND HUTCH!

Oh, yeah — if it's no bother.

It appears to be a wool forest, Princess. This must be where Badar keeps what he's dewooled.

C

Ro-o-oar!

No kidding, Chewie.

Perhaps if I use one of the Enterprise's lasers, I can make us a tunnel out of here.

Good thinking, Ghost.

That's Spook!

Well, I was close.

OOOOWW! Watch where you're pointing that laser you weird-eared vulcan. You got me right in the...

BLEEP!

What's up?

Chewie thinks he recognizes a relative.

PSST

AT LAST!

We're out!

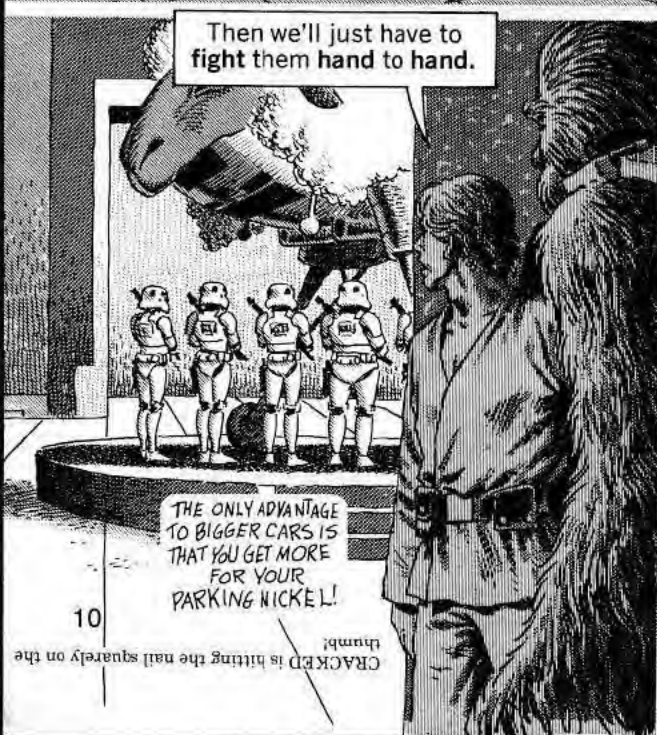

Was it hot in there! I don't know how the sheep stand it!

O.K., I got a plan for retrieving our flying sheep. All of us will grab it while Bend distracts Badar by dueling him with his laser flashlight.

Forget that!

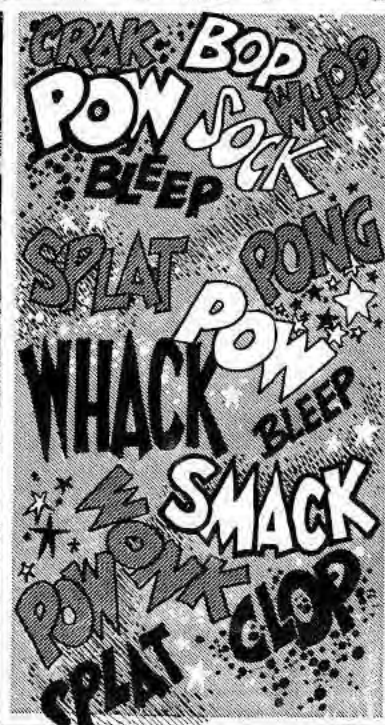

But it worked great last movie.

Oh yeah — if you discount the fact that I ended up dematerializing into nothing but a pile of clothes. Forget it — besides, I'm out of batteries.

Then we'll just have to fight them hand to hand.

STAMP OUT
ATHELETE'S

I'm zeroing in on the station now!

We did it! And Dark Badar is dead . . . maybe . . . perhaps . . . I hope?

I wanna thank you Quirk and Ghost.

That's Spook...

Whatever — for coming to our aid.

It was nothing.

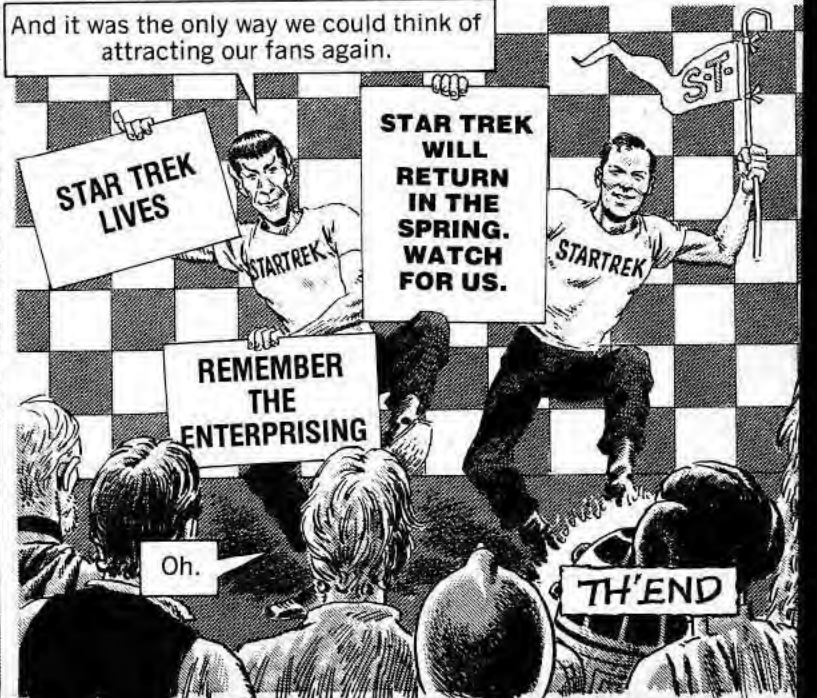

You'll get our bill in the morning.

One thing I don't understand though is — Why'd you beam down here?

CRACKED, besides being a humorous magazine is also a very cultured one, (which, just by our saying that proves how humorous we are.) However, before you scoff and chortle, we're about to prove that we are what we say as for the first time we present

THE CRACKED HISTORY OF ART

When did man first start to paint? Why did he sculpt? Where did he start?
Why are we asking so many questions?

CRACKED is bowling three strikes in a row and thinking you're out!

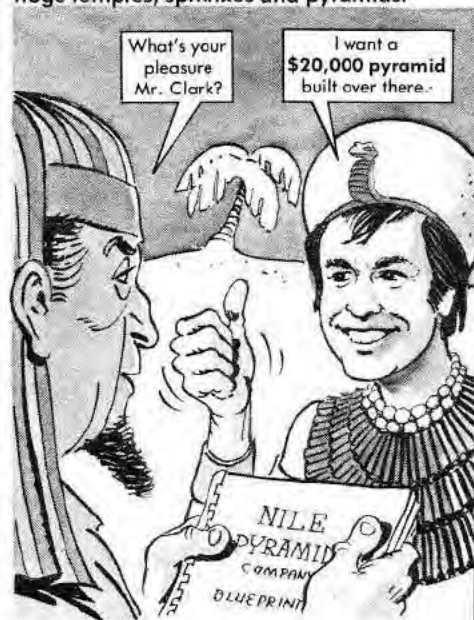

The earliest known drawings we have date back to 15,000 B.C. How did they get there? One theory suggests

It is said that early primitive sculptures were made to ward off evil spirits, but we learned what these sculptures really were and why they were so ugly.

The first "named" period of art was Egyptian—where architects would take orders to build huge temples, sphinxes and pyramids.

After Egypt fell, the Greeks emerged—also building beautiful temples and palaces with hand-sculpted figures.

Today, these temples can still be seen.

Similar to Greece, was the splendor of Rome. Many fragments of statues have been found and reconstructed . . .

Time passed, and while sculpture continued to dominate in the Middle Ages, painting was attempted—although perspective was not understood.

And then a revolution—the Renaissance. Artists began experimenting with perspective, and trying to capture all the colors they saw.

Also, in this creative period, was Leonardo da Vinci who originally started out as a cartoonist.

And there was another problem. Since there was no such thing as a standardized brush, artists had to use whatever was available to spread their paints.

And slowly, the great masters emerged. In Italy, Michelangelo was commissioned to paint the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel . . .

. . . as well as to design many outstanding buildings and churches.

A failure at this, Leonardo turned to painting where he finally rendered such hits as "The Last Supper," "Adoration of the Magi," and (his biggest) the "Mona Lisa." One interesting note—the "Mona Lisa" hanging in the Louvre was only one of three others he had attempted before getting the right look.

For centuries, millions have wondered what caused Mona Lisa to smile. The official answer?

The Renaissance continued into the 1600's with probably its most famous artist being Rembrandt.

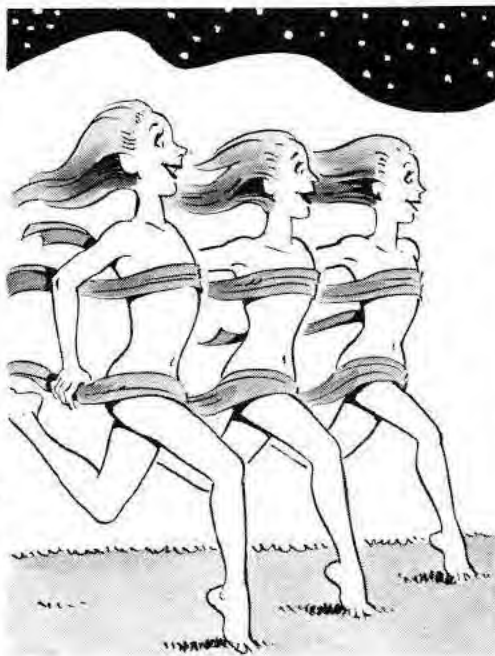

As the Renaissance came to a close, painters were now able to capture a persons' likeness as closely as a camera does today.

All right, if you'll just smile, say cheese and hold that position—I'll have your picture ready for you in 4 days.

Finally, with the Renaissance, artists were progressing and, instead of painting people who were flat ...

So, to make money from his art he took a job in a cigar company.

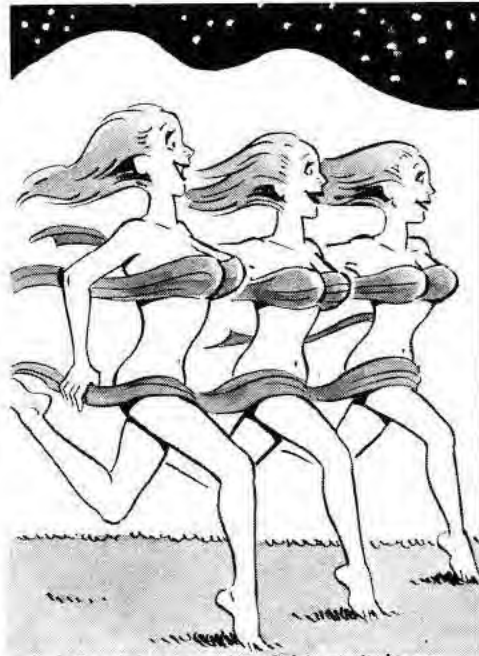

Enter the Romanticism period and with it, one of the era's greatest artists—Jacques Louis David whose most famous painting was "THE DEATH OF MARAT."

For ages, men have wondered what was written on the note that Marat was clutching.

the people being drawn now had perspective and fullness.

Another famous artist of this period was Gainsborough who used his son as a model for his most famous work, "The Blue Boy."

CRACKED has successfully blown-up this portion of the painting to discover the answer.

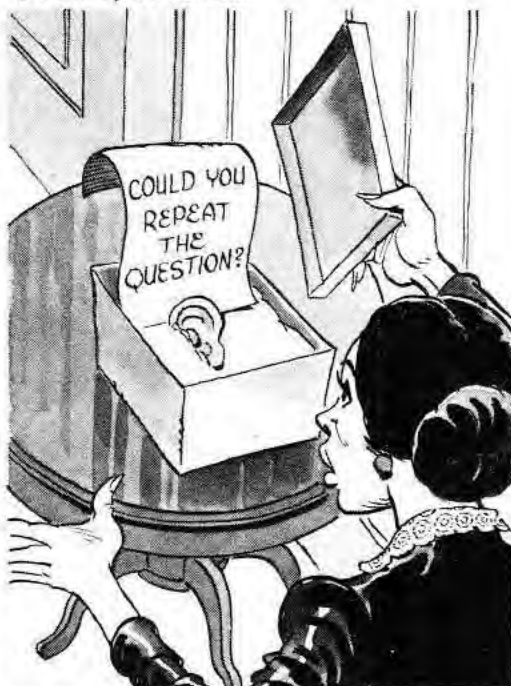

But soon Romanticism passed and turned into Impressionism where painters started to avoid realism (now that photography had been discovered) and began playing with time, perspective and color.

The result was Rodin's "THE THINKER" (seen here for the first time with the little known follow-up "THUNKED OUT!")

One of the greats of the period was Vincent Van Gogh who many said was not only a good painter, but a great practical joker as well.

Impressionism then turned into — Post — Impressionism which gave way to the yet untitled 20th century. Here we had Picasso working with Cubism.

And sculptors got away from just chiseling out somebody's head.

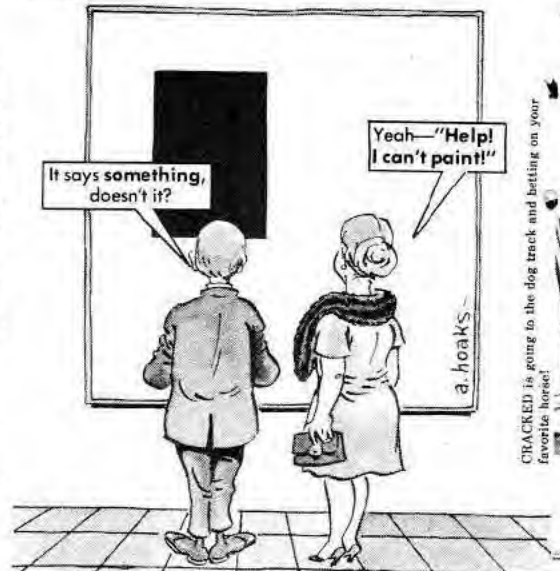

Hey, man! Wait! This is my garbage—that's my newest sculpture.

Along with painting, sculpture was now taking new turns as creators started using tools besides hammers and chisels to work with.

Now, artists began doing totally unreal things.

Yes, art is some 17,000 years old and if you put the new next to the ancient, it's clear to see how much man has grown.

And they searched for new models.

CRACKED is going to the dog track and betting on your favorite horse!

WARREN SATTGER

Not all super heroes are fighting crimes. Some are undertaking such super human tasks as trying to unravel the red tape in Washington and the Pentagon. It is for such sedentary stalwarts that a special handbook was designed . . .

A KRYPTON PUBLICATION

EXERCISE MANUAL AND HOT DOG STUNTS^{FOR} SUPER HEROES

POWERS

PUSH-UPS

1. Start with chest on floor and hands behind back.

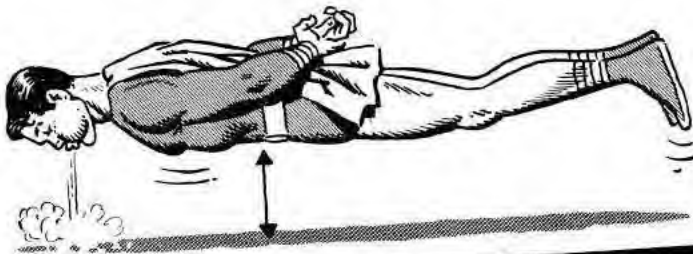

2. Tensing the toe muscles lift body to 30° angle. Repeat as often as possible in ten seconds.

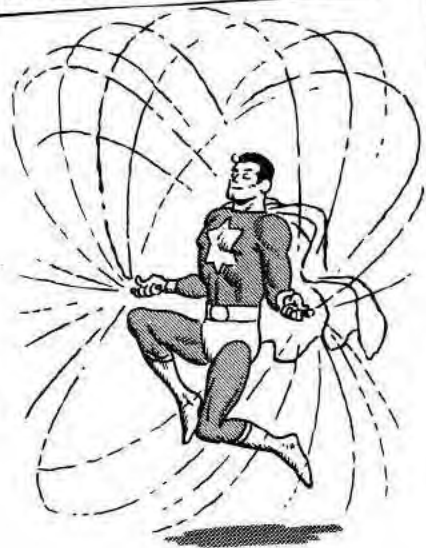

PUSH-UP VARIATION

Starting from floor position raise entire body by emitting steady stream of air from mouth

WARNING: SUPER HEROES ARE CAUTIONED AGAINST JUMPING ROPE. MORE THEN 5,000 REVOLUTIONS PER SECOND WILL CAUSE MOST ROPES TO IGNITE FROM RESULTING AIR FRICTION.

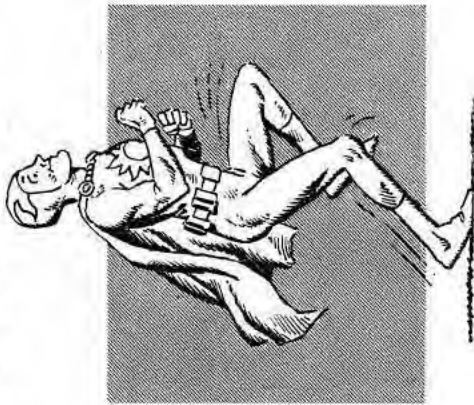

DON'T LET A DESK JOB PREVENT YOU FROM KEEPING YOUR SUPER MUSCLES IN TOP PHYSICAL FORM

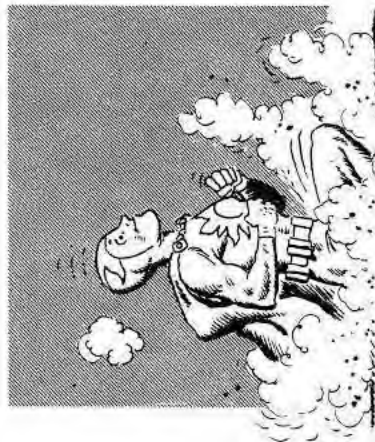

THE WARM-UP

IT IS IMPORTANT TO WARM UP GRADUALLY BEFORE WORKING OUT HARD

1. Briskly run in place.

2. As soon as you have burrowed yourself into a chest-high hole, you may consider yourself sufficiently warmed up.

BREATHING EXERCISE

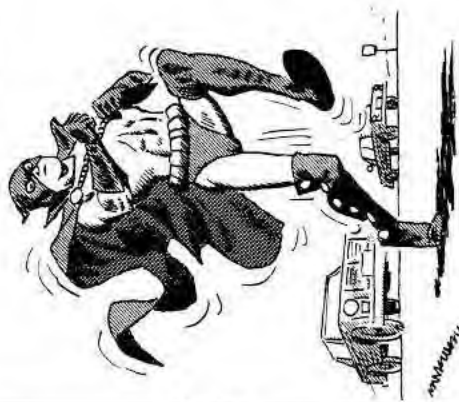

Take deep breath and exhale slowly.

Care should be taken to see that there are no trees within 300 yds. as they have a tendency to become easily uprooted during this exercise.

JOGGING

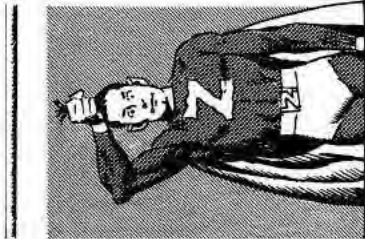

Jogging is a simple way to develop strength and endurance.

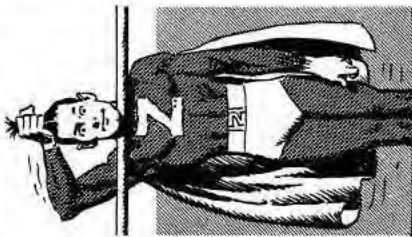

... while jogging on highways and freeways, be careful not to exceed the 55 mph speed limit.

CHINNING

1. Grab self firmly by the hair.

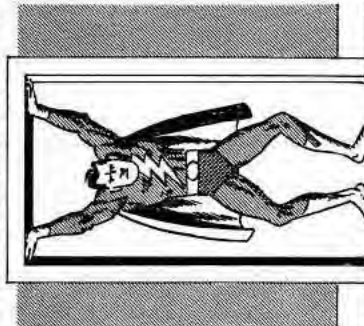

2. Pull yourself upwards until chin rests on bar.

Bald-headed super heroes can pull themselves by their capes.

ISOMETRICS

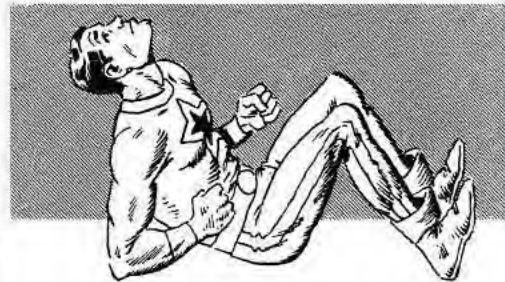

Stand in doorway, place both hands against frame of door and push upwards.

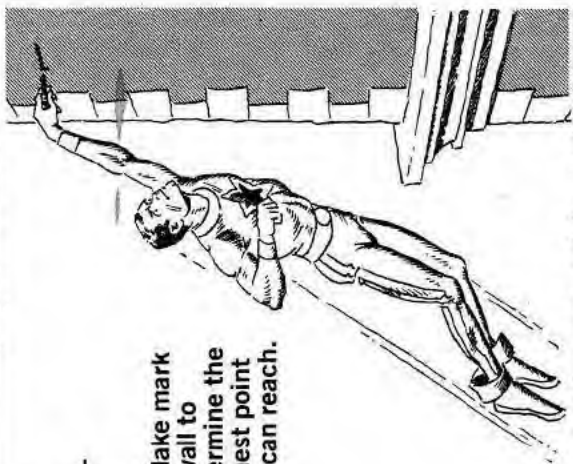

... If house does not collapse within 60 seconds see a doctor — you may be suffering from a green-krypton disease.

JUMPING-UP EXERCISE

1. Position yourself for a leap upward. Jump as high as you can.

2. Make mark on wall to determine the highest point you can reach.

Above exercise may not be worthwhile in cities where building codes limit structures to 40 stories.

SWIMMING

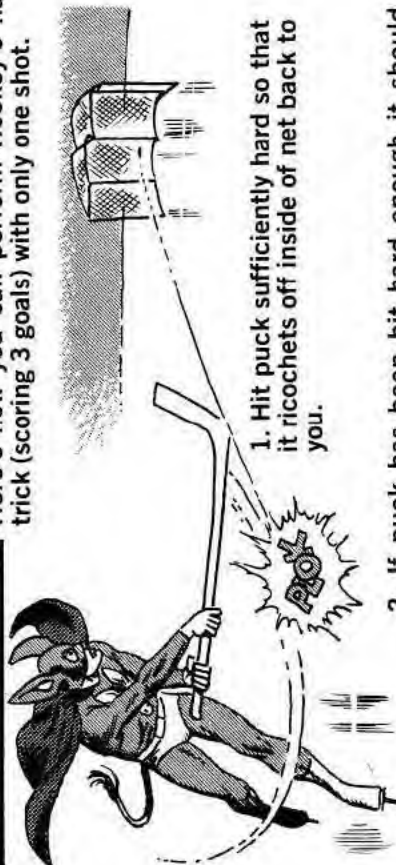

Super heroes should try to swim at least five laps (the 800 mile stretch around Lapland constitutes one lap) a day

CAUTION: RESULTING STEAM MAY SCALD NEARBY SEALS AND WHALES

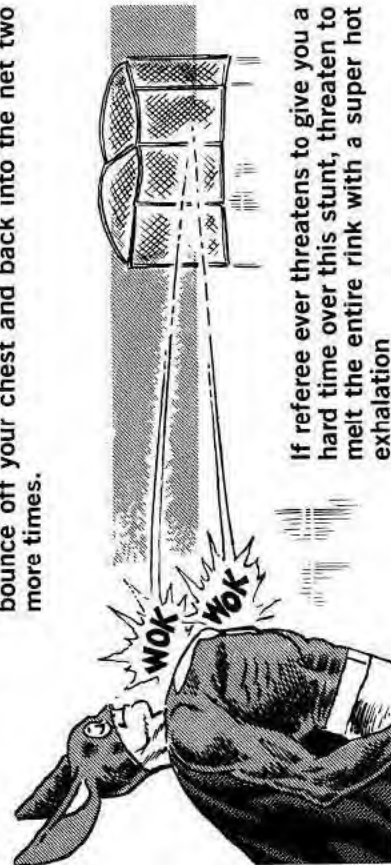

HOCKEY HAT TRICK

Here's how you can perform Hockey's hat trick (scoring 3 goals) with only one shot.

1. Hit puck sufficiently hard so that it ricochets off inside of net back to you.

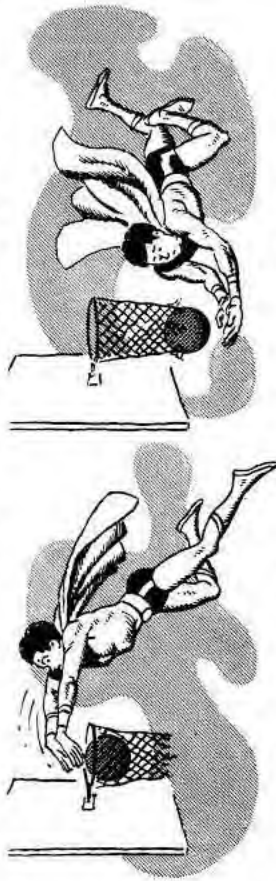

2. If puck has been hit hard enough it should bounce off your chest and back into the net two more times.

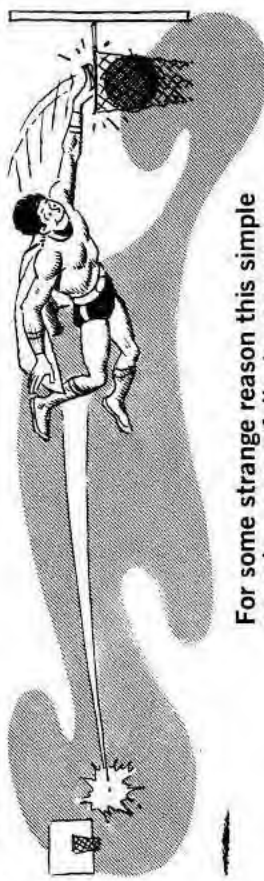

If referee ever threatens to give you a hard time over this stunt, threaten to melt the entire rink with a super hot exhalation

DOUBLE DUNK (known as the Dr. "S." stuff shot)

1. Dunk ball in the usual manner. 2. Catch ball as it comes out of net.

3. Proceed to dunk ball in opposite goal before you or ball touch the ground.

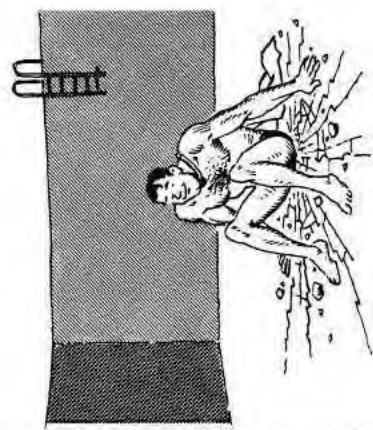

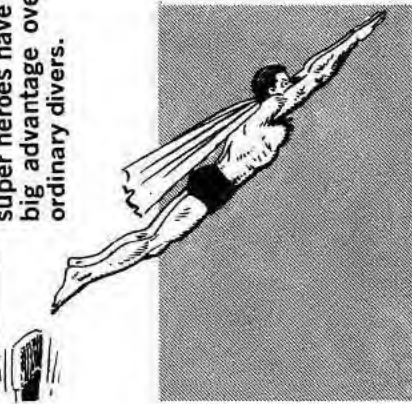

For some strange reason this simple exercise never fails to amaze on-lookers!

With their natural grace and agility super heroes have a big advantage over ordinary divers.

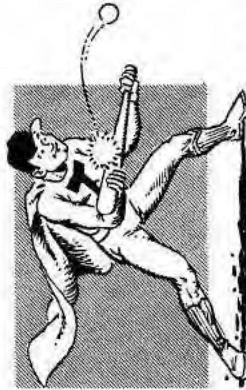

DIVING

... not needing any water to practice in is another big advantage.

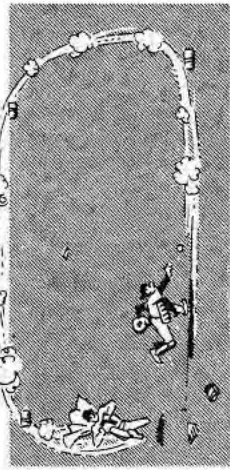

THE HOME RUN BUNT

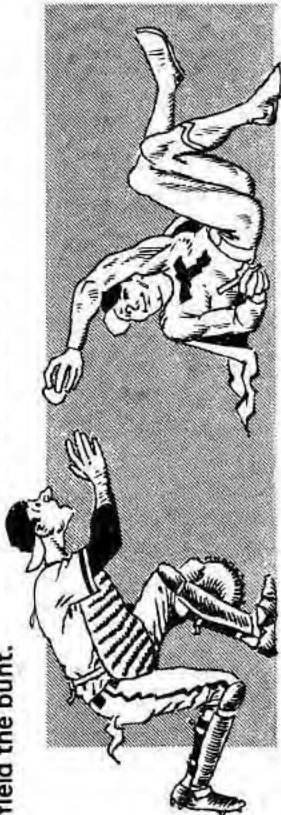

1. Gently lay down bunt.

2. Quickly circle all the bases.

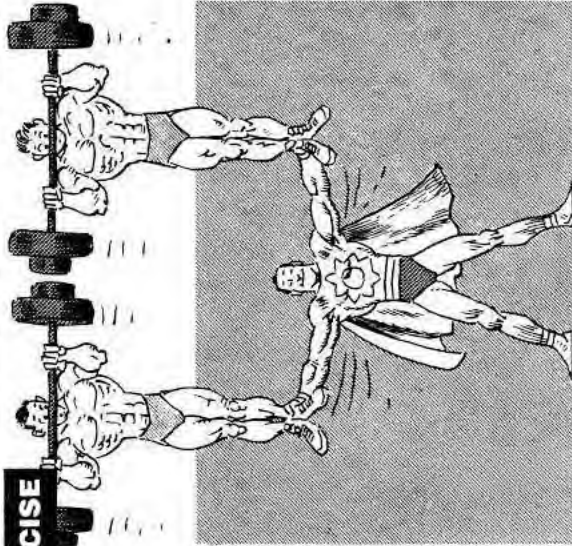

3. Autograph ball and hand it to catcher as he still attempts to field the bunt.

WEIGHTLIFTER EXERCISE

Firmly grasp two champion weightlifters by the ankles and move up and down in steady fashion.

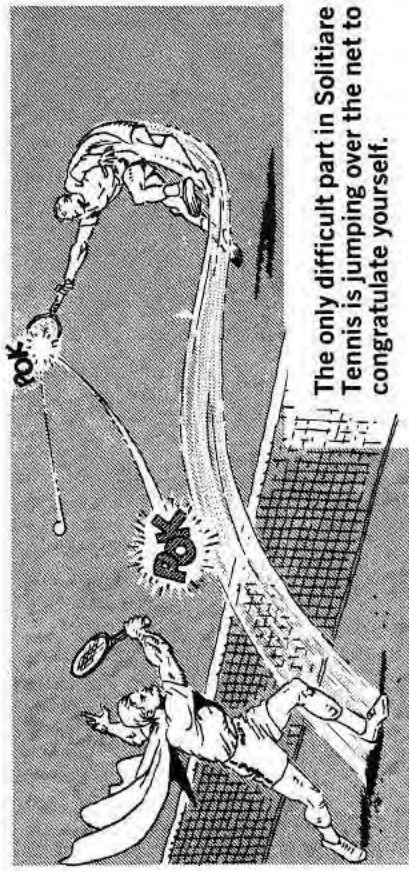

If weightlifters complain and suggest you get dumbbells for the exercise you can reply jokingly, "But I am using dumbbells!"

SOLITAIRE TENNIS

Playing against yourself is a wonderful conditioning exercise

1. Hit ball as hard as you can.

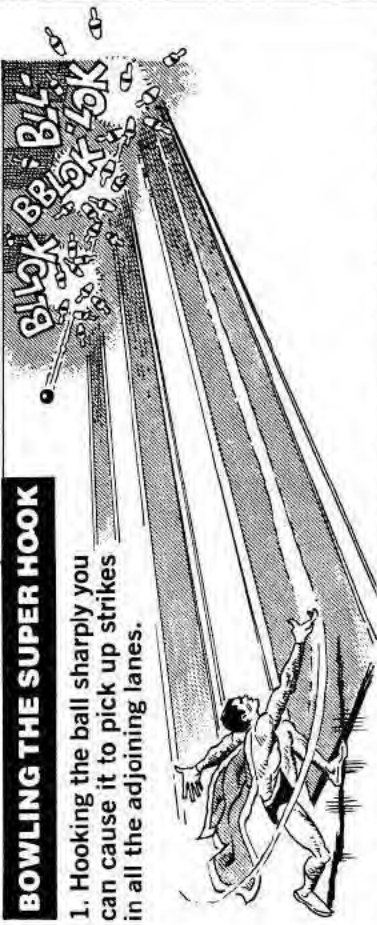

2. Race to the opposite court and return your shot.

The only difficult part in Solitaire Tennis is jumping over the net to congratulate yourself.

BOWLING THE SUPER HOOK

1. Hooking the ball sharply you can cause it to pick up strikes in all the adjoining lanes.

2. As ball goes through wall of bowling establishment it winds up in street gutter.

ACE BOWLING LANE

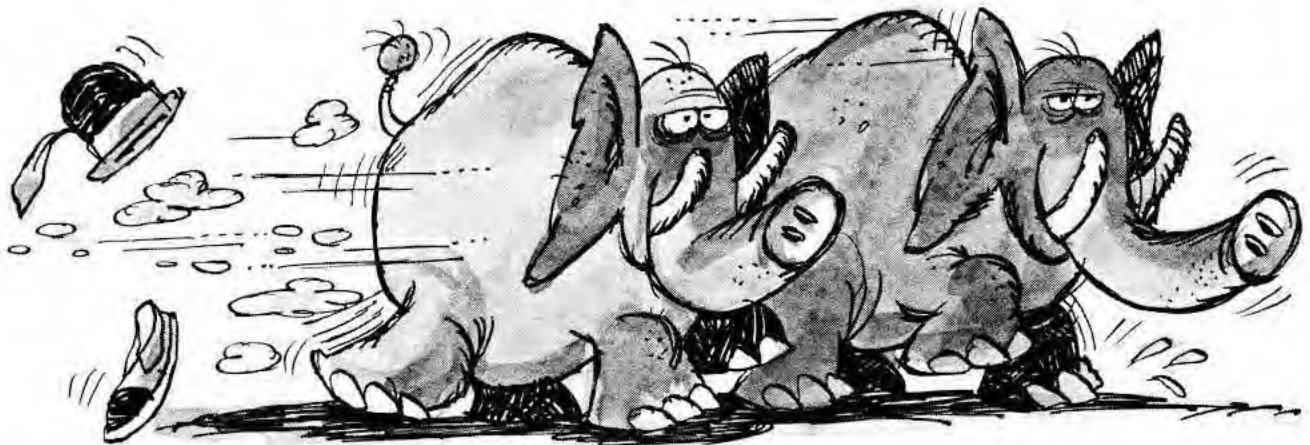

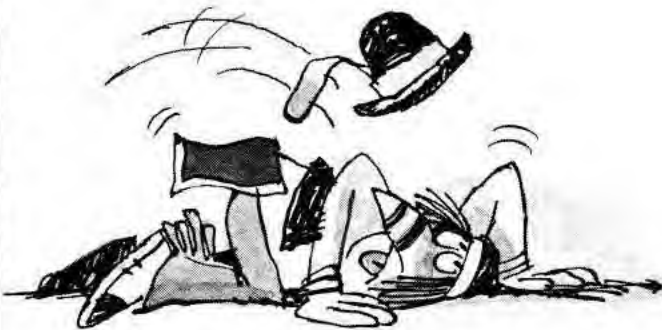

... you can now amuse your friends by telling them you picked up ten strikes with one "gutter ball".

Yes, the eyes have it at Dr. Pupil's!!!

Did she or didn't she — only her CPA knows for sure!!

Yes, when you go to Bill Addemups, no one, not even the IRS, will know how much money you really made.

I'll balance your books in such a way that not even you will know how much you are cheating Uncle Sam.

ALTERED BOOKS WITH A SMILE.

Bill Addemups, CPA — his number is listed in the yellow pages and now (for your convenience) also on the back of all Betty Crocker Cake Mixes.

Call Bill today!

It was him! The third one from the left. He was the one who killed my azalea bushes.

Murder!! It's not a pretty thing to be charged with — especially if you didn't do it.

I was in Australia when the bushes were killed! It couldn't have been me!

So, when the time comes to pick a good criminal attorney — call on Counselor I. Ubject.

I'll handle your case!!

Well, I dont know.

I. Ubject is the only attorney in the whole state to have seen every Perry Mason episode 4 times — and he'll use this knowledge to get you the best sentence possible.

LATER

They just sentenced me to 75 years!

Don't thank me

Thank you! They were gonna let me off with just a $5 fine before you butted in.

When your turn comes — CALL I. UBJECT

He's honest!

He's fair!

A CRACKED LOOK AT NEW YORK CITY

Officer, some man just tried to drag me into the alley and kiss me!

That guy must have been nuts!!

With 8 million people, 600,000 specialty stores and 30,000 office buildings, there's nothing you can't find in New York.

Except empty space!

POST NO BILLS ONLY CHECKS!

Look at that guy wearing a pair of Bermuda shorts and a derby!

Gad! Is this city full of weirdos!

My! Isn't that unusual! That man is scaling the side of that building!

Big deal! — What's happening over there?

Some man just found a parking spot.

WOW! Now for New York, that's unusual!

I just saw two policemen chase a hold-up man through Grand Central Station!

Did they catch him?

No. They lost him when he stepped on a scale and got a weigh.

Look Martha. Another panhandler.

This one's different George — it's Mayor Beame trying to meet this month's city budget.

WON'T YOU GIVE... I'M A LITTLE SHORT THIS MONTH!

I already did — moved to New York.

I love New York — it takes my breath away.

With all the pollution floating around, I'm not surprised.

There's a new fad in magazines of late known as "The People Syndrome." Suddenly, book after book is coming out carrying out such titles as "Celebrity," "Us," "People," etc. all geared towards nothing more than gossip. In the beginning, the contents of these slicks was somewhat interesting, but now, as the field thickens, the excuses for using the very familiar faces rests solely on exposing trivial aspects of their lives. Now, the meaning of the word 'celebrity' has been stretched to include anyone. To see what we mean, why not examine the first issue of yet another one of these people pushers known as

Dear Editor,

I realize there are just so many famous people in the world, but having a cover story on Don Knotts for the fifth week in a row . . . really!

Dear Editor,

Your look at the seven dwarfs and what they're up to today was fascinating. I could have guessed that Sleepy would one day become an insomniac and that Doc would be sued for malpractice, but to learn that Dopey has just become a speech professor at Harvard . . . !

Dear Editor,

Just had to write and tell you that I loved the piece on how Burt Reynolds trains his chest hairs.

Dear Editor,

A look at famous people's garbage was most welcome at our house. It was interesting to learn that Liz Taylor throws out almost the same things as we do on Monday.

Dear Editor,

Thanks to CHATTERBOX, I now know where to find Peter Reich's great invention — the linguini lengthener. No longer will my house have to put up with the agonies of short spaghetti!

Dear Editor,

Rick Pitts is a man to be admired. What courage it must have taken to live 7 weeks straight in that trash can. Thank you for this inspiring article.

CHEWIE — the Wookiee from Star Wars — talks about his torrid romance with Raquel Welch's shag rug.

Roger Featherwart — remember him as one of the extras from "Ben Hur?" Next week an exclusive interview with this magnetic star.

Paul Newman's secret for long life — "keep breathing regularly."

THE OTHER MAN IN FARRAH'S LIFE (Who hubby Lee Majors knows nothing about!)

CHATTERBOX has learned that once every four days, Farrah Fawcett-Majors sneaks away from her multi-million dollar estate to visit another man — a stranger husband Lee Majors knows nothing about.

Racing down cluttered highways to see him, along concrete streets, the ex-star of Charlie's Angels finally arrives at her little hideaway known as "Tomato Village."

Once there, she steps out of her car — using her left foot first, following it with her right foot — and walks in the door, making sure to open it ever so gently, thereby avoiding injury to her tennis arm.

Inside she yells out, "Angelo!" and a big, burly, 6' 8" Italian man comes bounding out to greet her.

Their eyes meet. She looks at him; he looks at her. They look at each other. There is music in the air coming from a little radio nestled among the radishes.

And then, as if on cue, Angelo looks up, wiping the tomato seeds from his hands and asks, "What'll it be today, Mrs. Majors?"

Without even pausing to think, the blue-eyed beauty looks up knowing exactly what she desires. "A zucchini," says Farrah, using her voice.

"Coming right up."

Farrah then inspects the zucchini holding it first in her right hand and then passing it to her left — a pass that must have taken months to perfect. A pass of grace — of elegance — of style!

"I'll take it!" she says throwing back her world-famous hair that grows from her scalp down, traveling along the sides and back of her head.

She pays with a dollar bill, folded in thirds, Washington's face down and receives 4¢ change. For the first time, their hands touch.

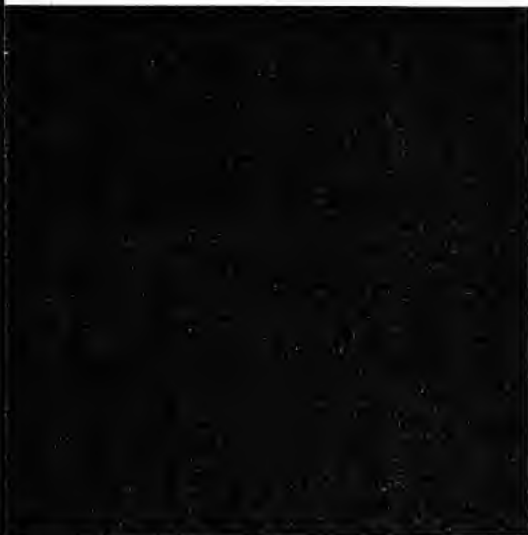

The 91-year-old Angelo thanks her. As she smiles, she turns for the door, this time starting with her right foot — knowing that she'll return again — perhaps next time for a cucumber . . . or a tomato . . . or even a passion fruit!

And sometime tonight, after a hard day's shooting of THE SIX MILLION DOLLAR MAN, Lee Majors will return home. He'll eat his salad, sip his wine and then bite into that zucchini — never knowing WHO the vegetable man was who sold it to Farrah!!

INTERVIEW

MRS. CARTER AND AMY WITH SLEEPING PRESIDENT IN DARKENED ROOM.

Chatterbox: Excuse me, Mrs. Carter, may we have a word with you?

Mrs. Carter: It's 4 o'clock in the morning! What are you doing coming in through my window?

WHITE HOUSE GUARDS ASK CHATTERBOX PHOTOGRAPHER TO LEAVE.

Chatterbox: Well, we rang the front bell, but nobody answered.

Mrs. Carter: Jimmy! Jimmy! Get up! There's somebody crawling through our window!

Chatterbox: If you could just comment to us exclusively on your likes and dislikes.

Mrs. Carter: Well, one thing for sure — I don't like people crawling through my window at 4 am.

Amy: What's all the noise in here, Mama?

Mrs. Carter: Nothing, Amy. Go back to your treehouse. It's just some . . . who's that?

Chatterbox: Our photographer. If we could just get one of you and Amy sitting next to the sleeping President.

Mrs. Carter: If you don't get out of here, I'm going to call someone.

Chatterbox: Excuse me, Mrs. C. — are those metallic curlers you're wearing? — They might give off a glare . . . I'm shooting with a flash.

Mrs. Carter: Get out of here! Both of you!

Chatterbox: O.K., O.K. Only please . . . stop throwing empty peanut shells at us.

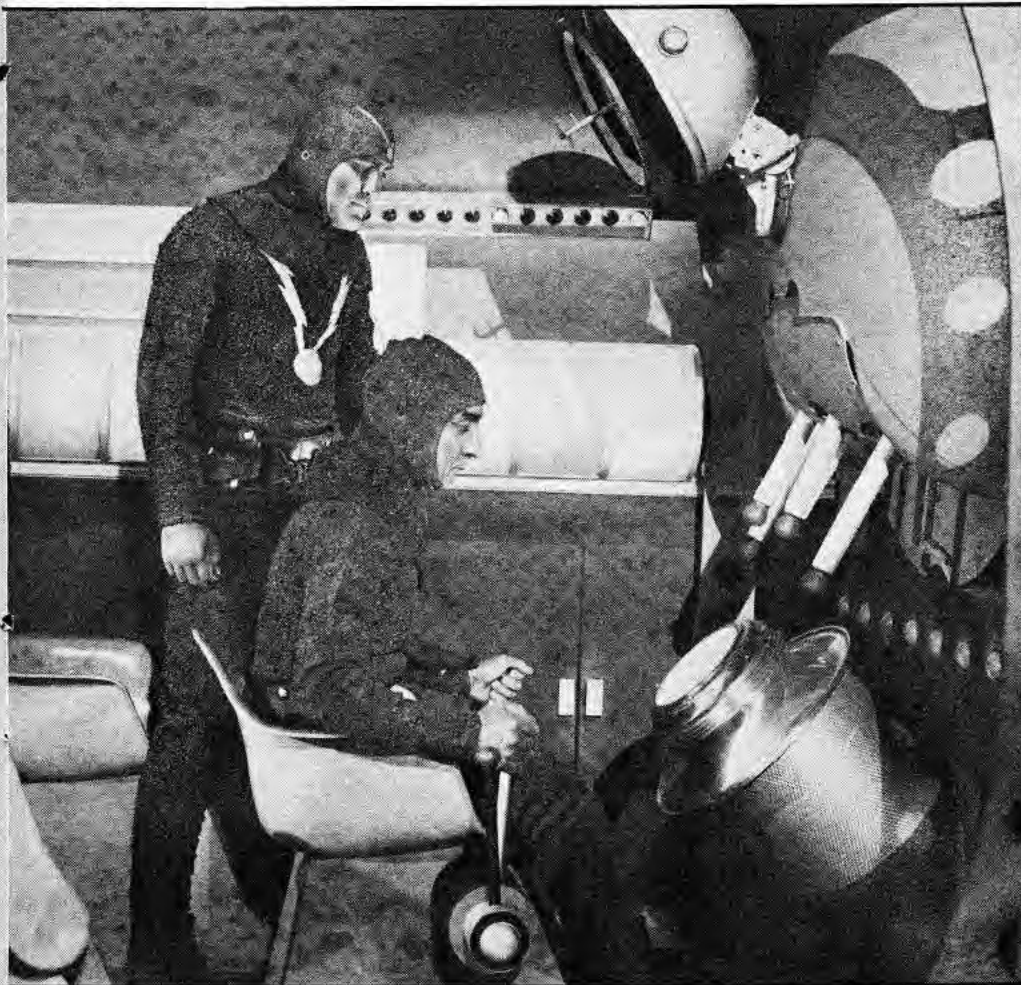

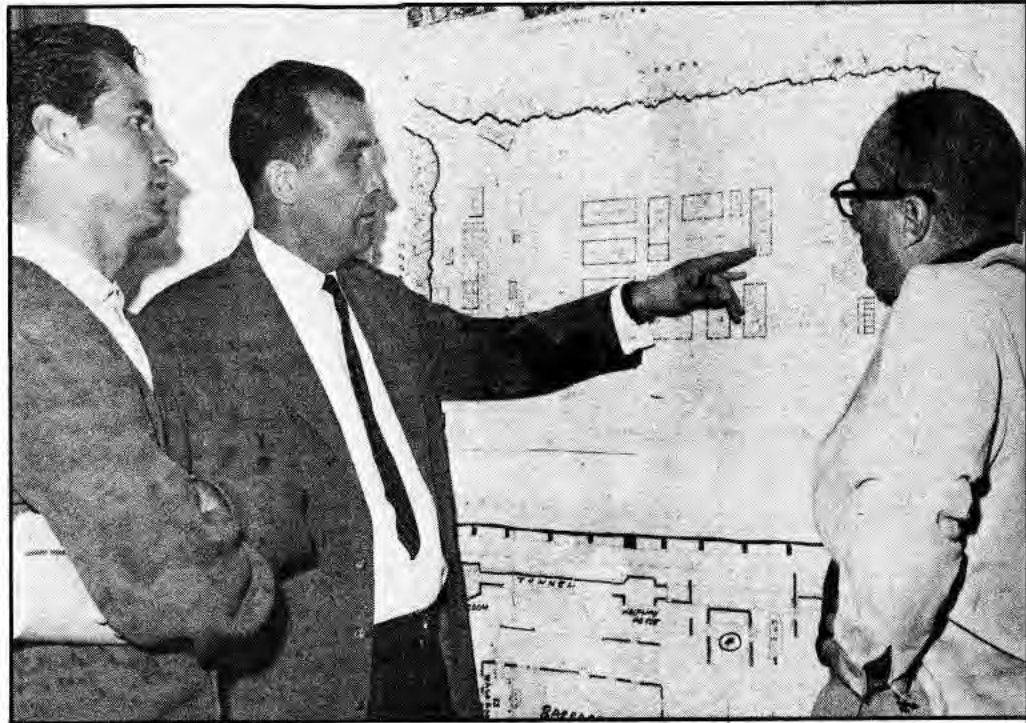

Mr. Carter: Snoooore.

IN KEEPING WITH THE PRESIDENT'S OPEN COMMUNICATIONS POLICY, AFTER QUESTIONING MRS. CARTER, WHITE HOUSE AID IS PERMITTED TO QUESTION OUR WRITER.

JIMMY AND CHIP

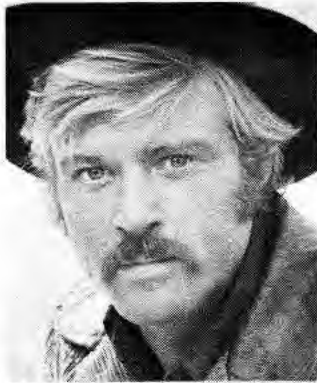

Convinced that his smash show "The Rockford Files" should be around for a while, actor James Garner, has decided to spend some of his savings on a new home for his turtle "Chip." The 17-room domicile (being designed by architect Klaus Haus shown here with blue prints) will have a 180' wading pool, three bedrooms, a fly-storage shed and a 20' gravel pit. "Chip should be mighty happy," Mr. Garner said. "My gravel pit is only about half that size!"

BIG NEW MOVIE

You may not know them now, but Heimy Blake, Glen Fistwhile and Peter Cornfritter hope you will by next March. Awed by the hit movie "Star Warz", the three unknowns are shooting a uniquely original science fiction flick of their own in Heimy's garage entitled "Star Jawz" ... the story of a 35' space shark that kidnaps a princess. With a budget of $1.89, the film will have such thrilling effects as a whole scene shot through a piece of cellophane and two plastic space ships being melted by a Cricket lighter.

GOSSIP

ROBERT REDFORD: STAMP SAVER

Scratching For Comeback It is rumored that Lassie is trying to make a comeback if she can find a suitable script. The two-time Emmy-winning star, feeling that she's been typecast in the past, would now like to play either a ballerina or a monkey.

Said Kate, "I love him because he's kind and because it's always like having a mirror around. If I'm unsure of my hair, I just have to look into his chest or his knee-cap to know that I'm fine."

Saving The Green Actor Robert Redford, happy with the progress his environmental crusades have been taking, has a new cause — saving S & H Green Stamps. "Each year," Mr. Redford claims, "thousands of stamps take a terrible licking."

ROBERT BLAKE: HITTING HARD AT VIOLENCE

Clap Hands Clap Hands Mark Murphy a 7-year old unknown, broke the world's record for hand clapping last week — 6 days, 7 minutes. Throughout the event his mother fed him milk shakes and liquified pizza through a straw. His next ambition? To go on all the rides at Disney world while inside an Armadillo.

At The Post Amy Carter, happy about her new job as an editor for the summer at "The Washington Post" was asked how she felt beating out 200 middle-aged men. Answered the 10-year-old, "I guess I was just the most qualified for the position."

A Little Punchy When asked what he thought about violence, Robert Blake turned, punched our CHATTERBOX reporter in the mouth and said, "I think it should only be used when absolutely necessary." He then smiled and kicked a passing pigeon in the teeth.

Unexpected Switch Barbara Walters had an apple instead of a banana for dessert Tuesday afternoon. Commented co-anchorman Harry Reasoner, "That's Barbara for you — totally unpredictable!"

JIMMY WALKER: ON THE RECORD

Model Citizen Now that Cher's TV show has been cancelled, the former Mrs. Bono/Mrs. Allman has revealed what her next job will be — a model for a new line of toothpicks.

Magnetic Attraction New duo in town. Kate Jackson of "Charlie's Angels" is said to be seeing Hollywood's latest superstar on a regular basis, C3PO of "Star Warz" fame.

At Rest Elton John did absolutely nothing of any news importance last week and we felt you wanted to know.

CHER: AND SHARE ALIKE

Chatterbox Exclusive Jimmy Walker bought a copy of Peter Frampton's new album for only $4.39. After listening to the first side, the star of the hit TV sitcom GOOD TIMES was reportedly heard to say, "Now I think I'll listen to side 2."

Has this ever happened to you?

Da . . . let me have that orange, punk!

Care to dance?

Or girls, this to you?

No!!!

Well, if it has, or if you just want to tone up those sagging biceps and triceps, then it's time for you to read

THE CRACKED GUIDE TO MUSCLE DEVELOPMENT

I. DIET: Before we explore the various exercises you can try, we should mention that in any body development program, what you eat is of extreme importance. So, from the outset you should begin to

DRINK LOTS OF MILK

EAT PLENTY OF IRON

NIBBLE ON HIGH ENERGY SNACKS

AND GOBBLE DOWN LOTS OF RARE MEAT

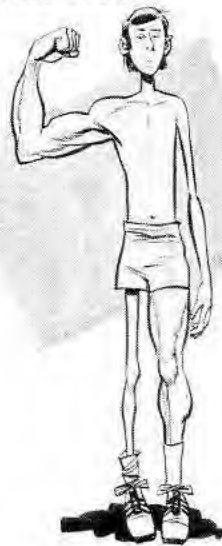

* IS THIS SOME SORT OF CHICKEN JOKE?

II. PRELUDE:

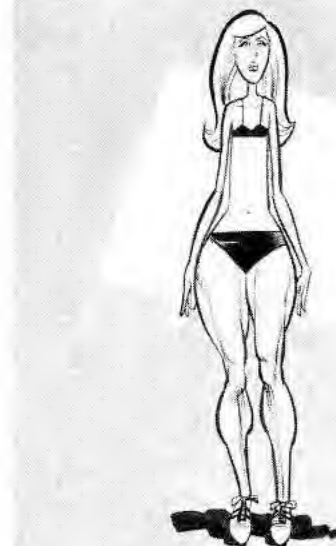

Before exercising, one should always warm up ...

... remembering to build those muscles up evenly. Otherwise, you could end up looking like this ...

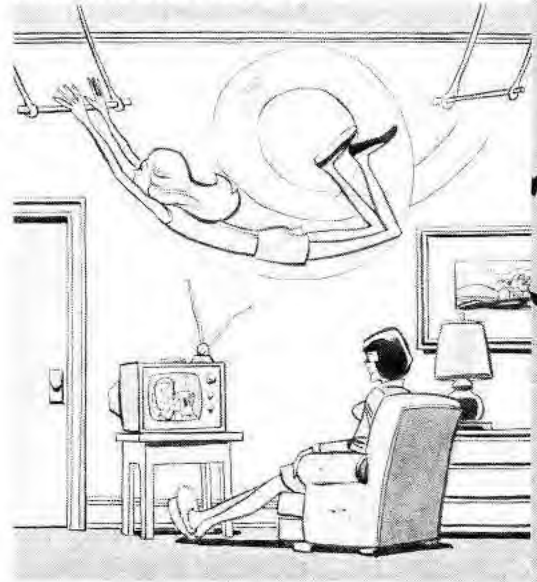

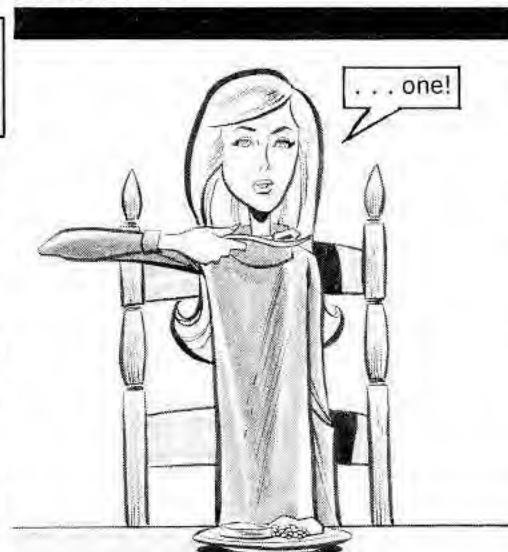

or this.

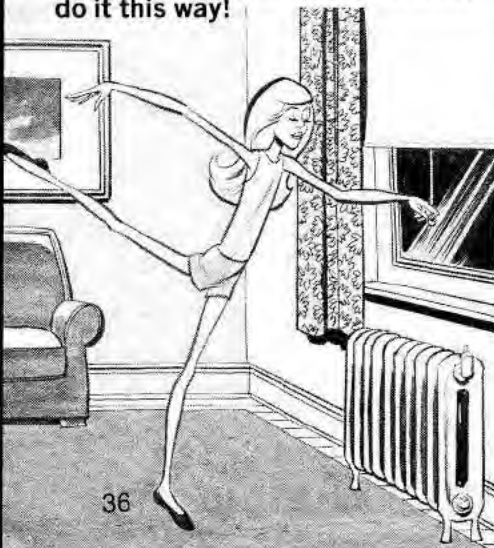

III. BEGINNING: All right. You've got your diet and the preliminaries down, now it's time to get under way. Begin by selecting an exact time ... starting the whole program off simply ...

... slowly working up to more elaborate exercises.

When planning this whole program out, try incorporating your daily exercises into everyday activities whenever possible. For example:

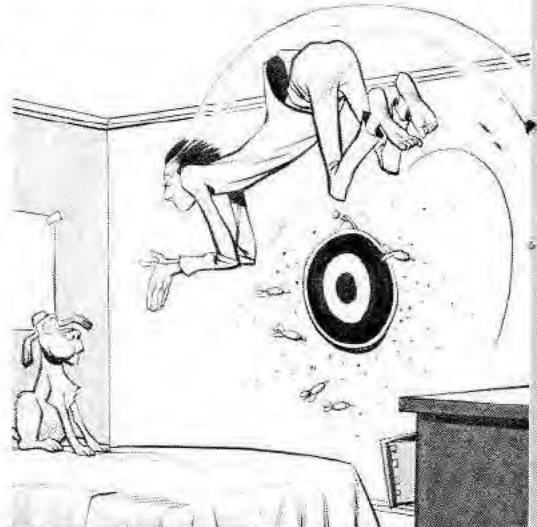

If you're going to close a shade, do it this way!

In going from office to office at your business, why walk when you can ...

And don't just climb into bed ...

IV. WEIGHT-LIFTING: A very good way to build up those muscles is by lifting weights. How much weight should you start with? Good question! And the answer depends on you.

For example, five pounds can be extremely heavy for openers if you look like this.

Whereas, if you look like this, five pounds is nothing.

Another thing to take into consideration is which muscles you want to develop. The answer will tell you where to use the weights.

Why the weights on your ears?

I wanna develop stronger hearing!

Begin your program by pressing a small amount.

Working up to the

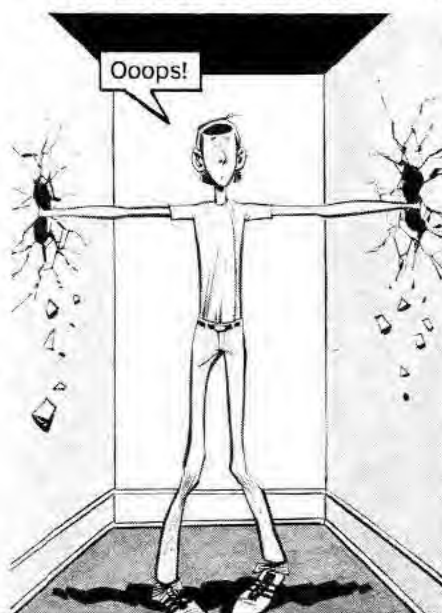

TWO-ARM SNATCH

AND THE TWO-ARM DUMBBELL STRETCH.

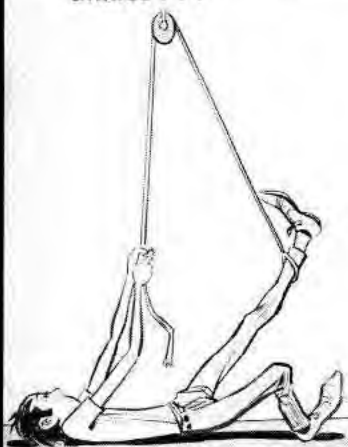

And for total development, more advanced people can attach weights to their body while performing every day chores.

... THE ONE-ARM SNATCH ...

V. LEG RAISES: Another good program you should try is one for your legs.

Start simply by attaching ropes and pulleys to your . . . and work up to the more difficult.

VI. JOGGING: Here's another exercise good for not only leg development, but also other parts of your body as well. Instead of taking convenient transportation, jog to where you're going.

However, we suggest checking out your route ahead of time.

VII. SHOT-PUTTING: There are many ways to build-up those sagging biceps too, including push-ups, chin-ups and the most difficult of all — the shot-put.

THE WIND-UP

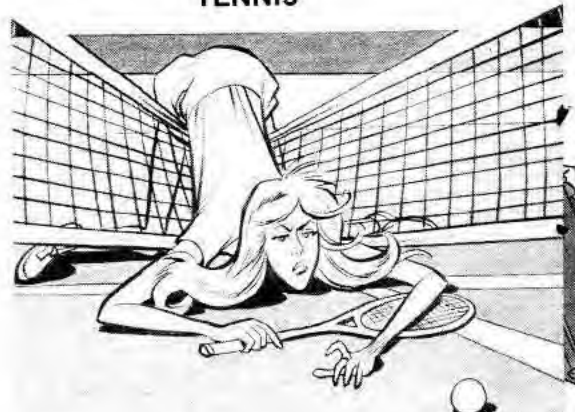

THE RELEASE

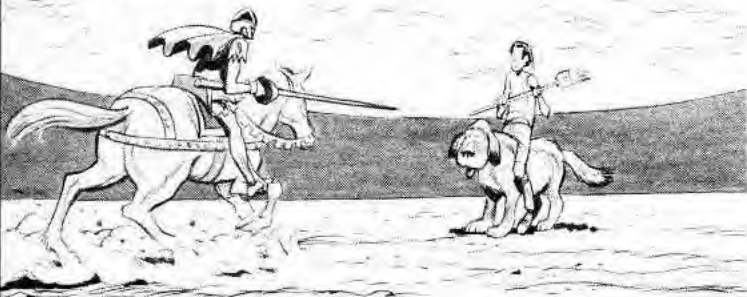

THE LANDING

VIII. SPORTS: And once you have all your muscles toned up, participating in everyday sports will help keep them in tip-top shape. Try simple things like

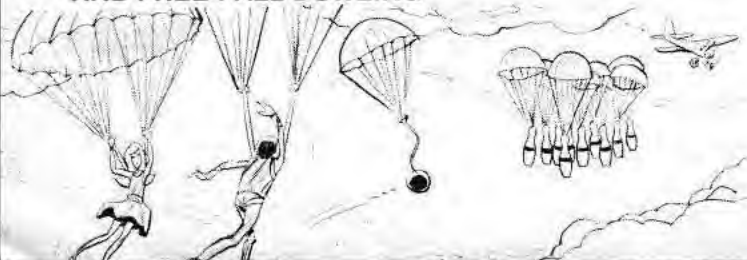

TENNIS

JOUSTING

AND FREE-FALL BOWLING

Now, remember how we started — with you being degraded! Well, if you've followed this guide . . .

Yup! It'll probably happen to you again because, you see, while you've been getting stronger — so's that other guy!!

Like what?

Like where you got that bill from and how many more you printed.

What makes them think I printed it?

Beats me. All I told them was that I got the bill from my friend Raja Tomas and please don't arrest him cause he didn't know what he was doing.

Thanks.

Hi Cee, where's Mama?

Well, if it ain't Daddy Fraudbucks.

Cee, I don't want you tellin' Mama about any of this. I'm concerned about her health.

Her health?

Yeah. If she finds out and starts hitting me, she could hurt the back of her hand somethin' awful.

Hi Raja.

Mama! What are you doin' in the living room?

I live here — remember?

Oh yeah.

What's wrong with you?

I'd tell you Mama, but Raja doesn't want me to say anything about his having to go down to the police station tomorrow.

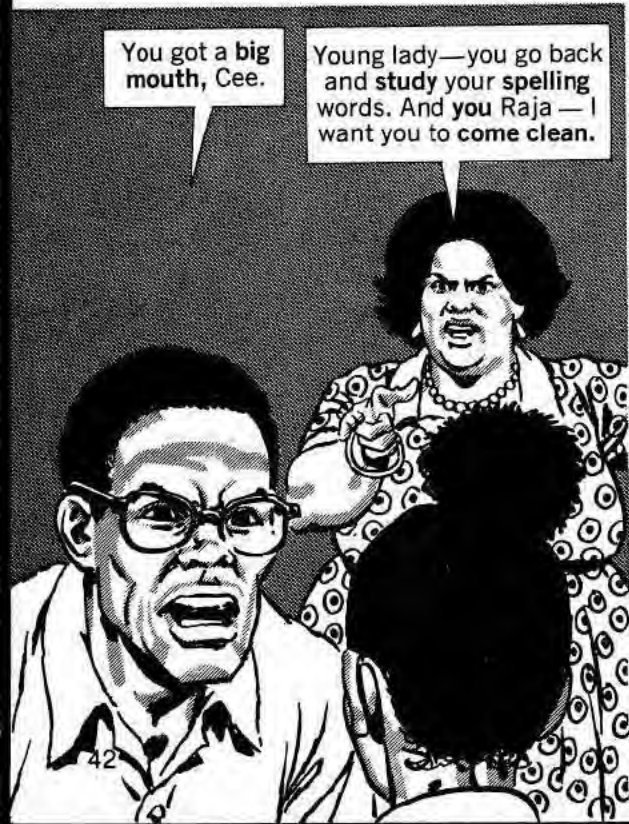

What'd you say?

I can't repeat it Mama cause Raja doesn't want me to tell you anything—right Raja?

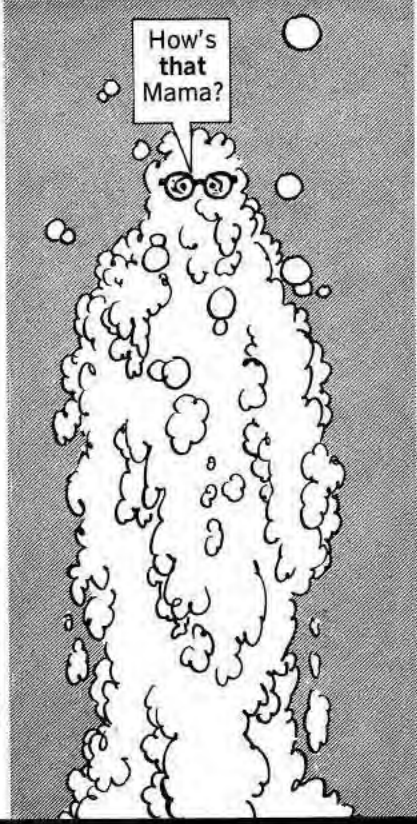

You got a big mouth, Cee.

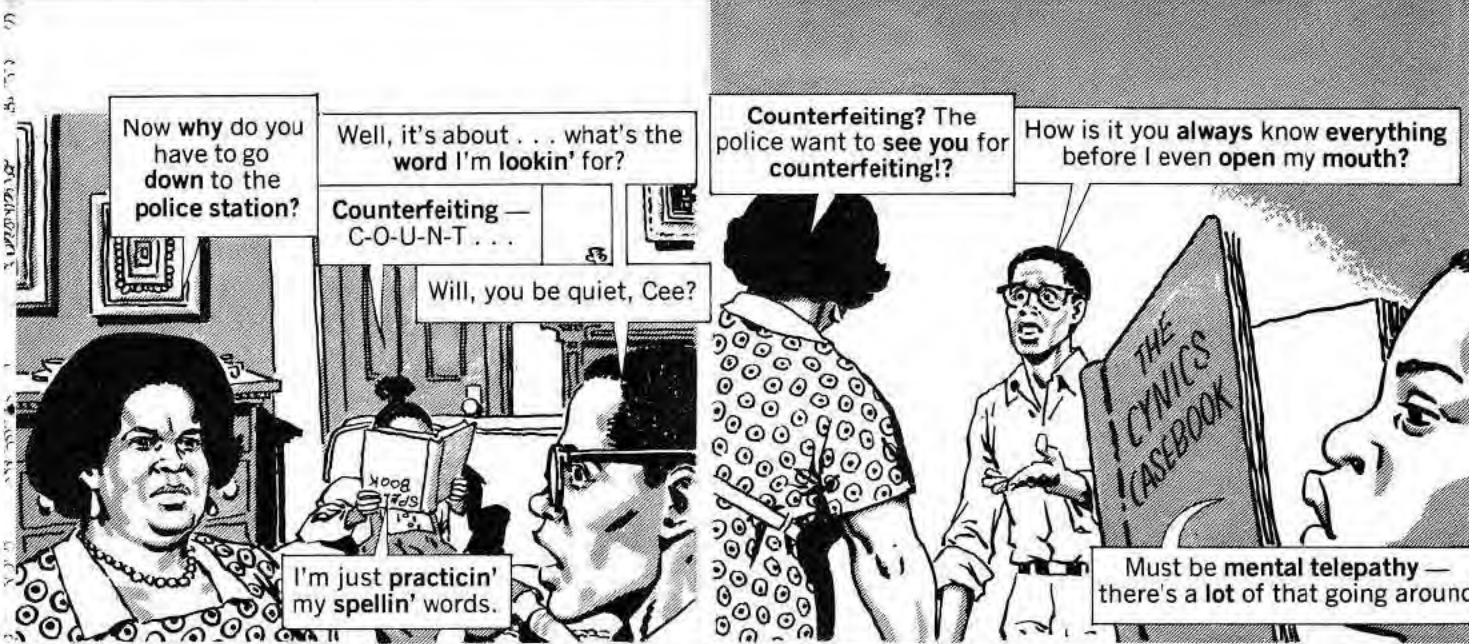

Young lady—you go back and study your spelling words. And you Raja—I want you to come clean.

How's that Mama?

CRACKED is taking your wife with you wherever you go because it's better than kissing her goodbye!

Now why do you have to go down to the police station?

Well, it's about . . . what's the word I'm lookin' for?

Counterfeiting — C-O-U-N-T . . .

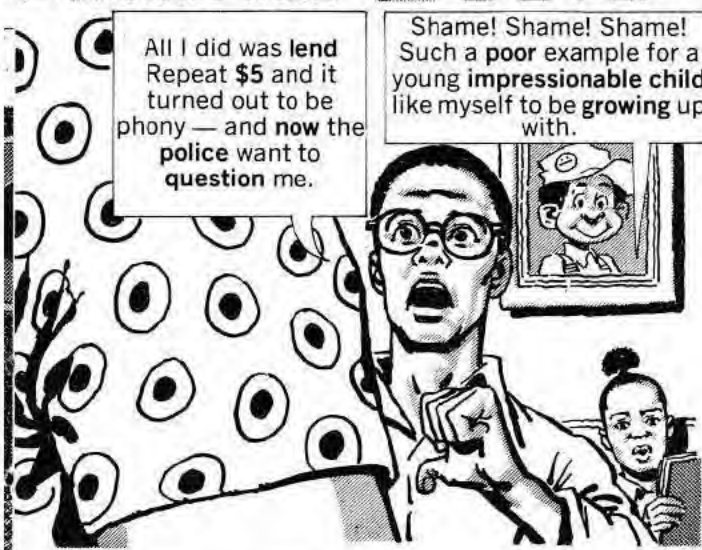

Will, you be quiet, Cee?

I'm just practicin' my spellin' words.

Counterfeiting? The police want to see you for counterfeiting!?

How is it you always know everything before I even open my mouth?

Must be mental telepathy — there's a lot of that going around.

All I did was lend Repeat $5 and it turned out to be phony — and now the police want to question me.

Shame! Shame! Shame! Such a poor example for a young impressionable child like myself to be growing up with.

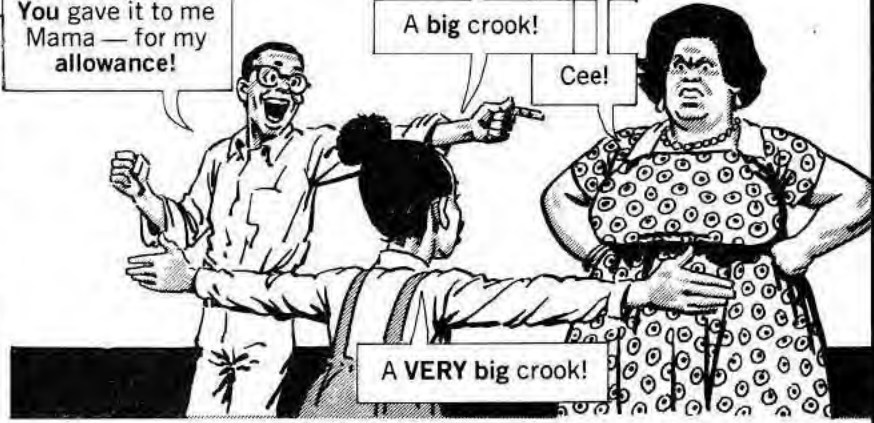

If I could only remember where I got the $5 from — WAIT A SECOND!! You gave it to me Mama — for my allowance!

My own mother! A crook!

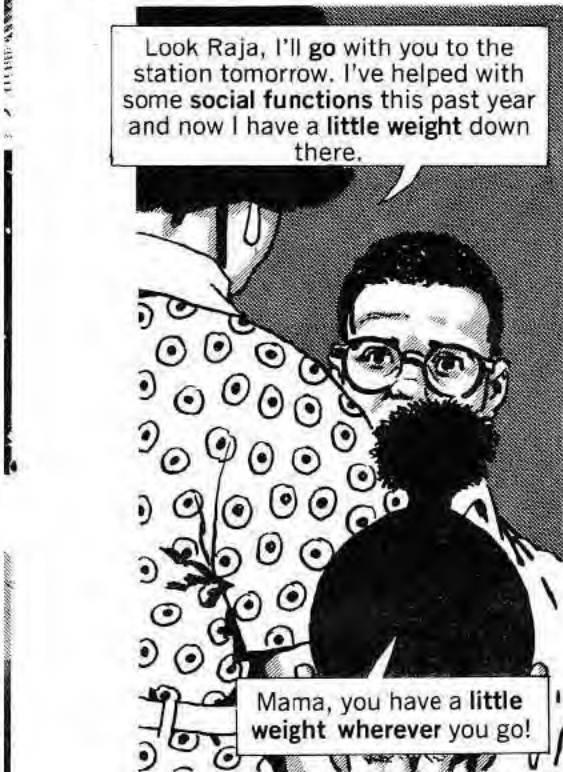

Cee!

A big crook!

Cee!

A VERY big crook!

Look Raja, I'll go with you to the station tomorrow. I've helped with some social functions this past year and now I have a little weight down there.

Mama, you have a little weight wherever you go!

TH'END

Throughout the years, we have presented some great interview articles and this month our streak continues as we talk with ... Well, why go into it here when Nanny will only say it all over again in the first panel. Instead, we'll just tell you up here that this month

CRACKED INTERVIEWS THE WRITING KING

Greetings everyone — Nanny Dickering again and have I got a treat for you. This month we're going to be visiting with the head writer of the magazine you're reading now — responsible for all the movie and TV satires and the great jokes on page 57 & 58 — none other than Mr. I.M. Amoron — THE CRACKED WRITING KING.

As you can see Nanny, I like to keep my personal life as fun-filled as the jokes I write.

That hand buzzer is pretty old stuff.

So are the jokes I write.

Tell me, I.M., where do you get your ideas from?

Well, if it's a movie satire, a lot of the ideas come from seeing the movie itself.

That makes sense.

It does?! . . . I wonder why I do it then??

I DON'T KNOW WHY I COME HERE TO EAT... THE FLIES GET THE BEST OF EVERYTHING
W.G. FIELDS

However, for most of my articles, a long creative process is involved.

Could you describe it?

I don't know. I think I'd have an easier time describing a henway.

What's a henway?

Oh, about 6 pounds.

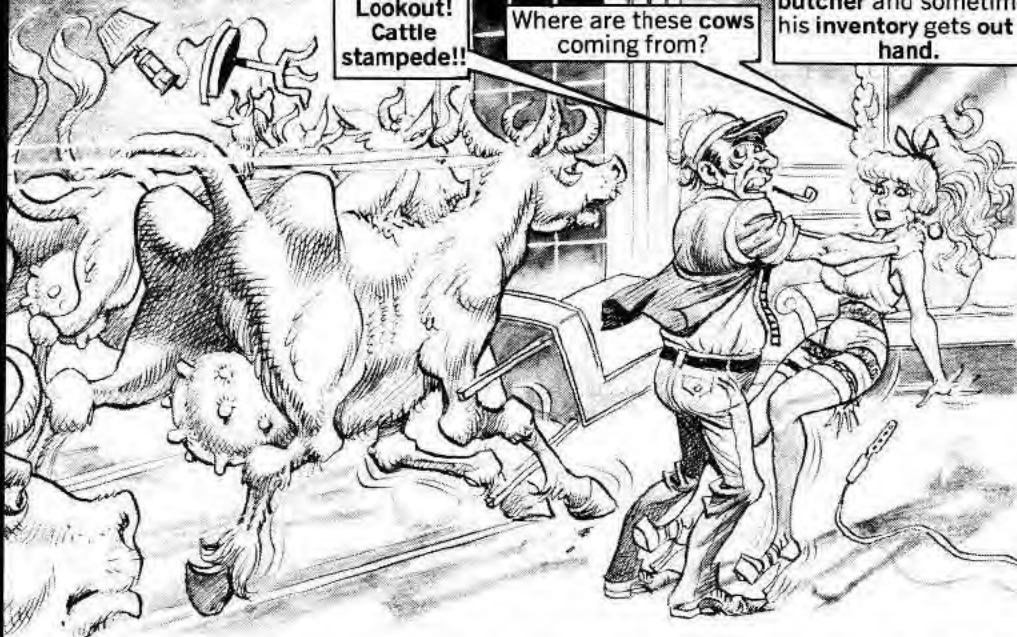

THE FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH

Nanny! Lookout! Cattle stampede!!

Where are these cows coming from?

I share my house with a butcher and sometimes his inventory gets out of hand.

Now, where were we . . . ? Oh yes! The creative process. It starts with me staring for a moment . . . then a glimmer of a thought enters my head. I ferret it out . . . and I refine it, then . . .

Yes?

I throw it all away and copy what I need from a back issue of Time.

How did you get your job at CRACKED, Mr. Amoron?

Pure luck. In fact, why don't I just tell you the story in a flashback.

That would be different.

One day I was lying in a gutter — no job — no friends — no food — just a thousand dollar bill in my pocket!

$1,000 bill!!!
Why didn't you spend it and buy some food?

I couldn't get change!

Suddenly, a man tapped me on the shoulder.

It was CRACKED'S editor and he wanted you to write for them?

No, it was the street cleaner and he wanted me to move so he could sweep the spot where I was lying.

But as I was moving, I bumped into another man. . .

Why are you going through that garbage?

I'm looking for unpublished articles for my magazine, CRACKED. I'm the editor.

Tell me, filthy bum, whom I despise, can you write?

I'm afraid not.

Then get away from me. You're infesting my fur collar.

POST NO BILLS
or Boos or Bruises either!

But I can type!

You can? — Wonderful! — You're hired! You're my new head writer!

And that's how it all started.

Do you remember what the first thing was that you wrote for him?

Yes — What was it?

My phone number! — Otherwise, he would have never found me again!!

Looking about, I'd say you're paid pretty well.

Yes, my CRACKED paycheck is almost $27 a week.

But Mr. Amoron — this is a $100,000 house. Where do you get the rest of your money?

From other magazines begging me not to write for them!

My! Look at this on your desk.
"Sylvester used a led pensil to right with. He waz . . ." Is this a letter from one of your fans?

No, that's my latest article.

Latest article? Mr. Amoron, I count some 20 misspelled words on this page!

20? — You're kidding! GREAT!
Buying this dictionary really helped me.

Don't the editors frown on your spelling things wrong?

They love it. Ten of the last twelve checks they've sent me couldn't be cashed because I kept spelling my name AMURAN thousands!!

Who's the one

Have you ever written a book?

Yes, I've written
a lot of books,
but none of them ever wrote me back.

CRACKED is running the 3 minute mile in half the distance!

I love the way your kitchen is decorated. It's so . . . Excuse me
Mr. Amoron. Why are you taking the corn off that cob and throwing it away?

That's not normal?

No.

Then I'd better stop doing it.

Since you've been with CRACKED, what firsts have you come up with?

I picked the winning horse at Belmont last week.

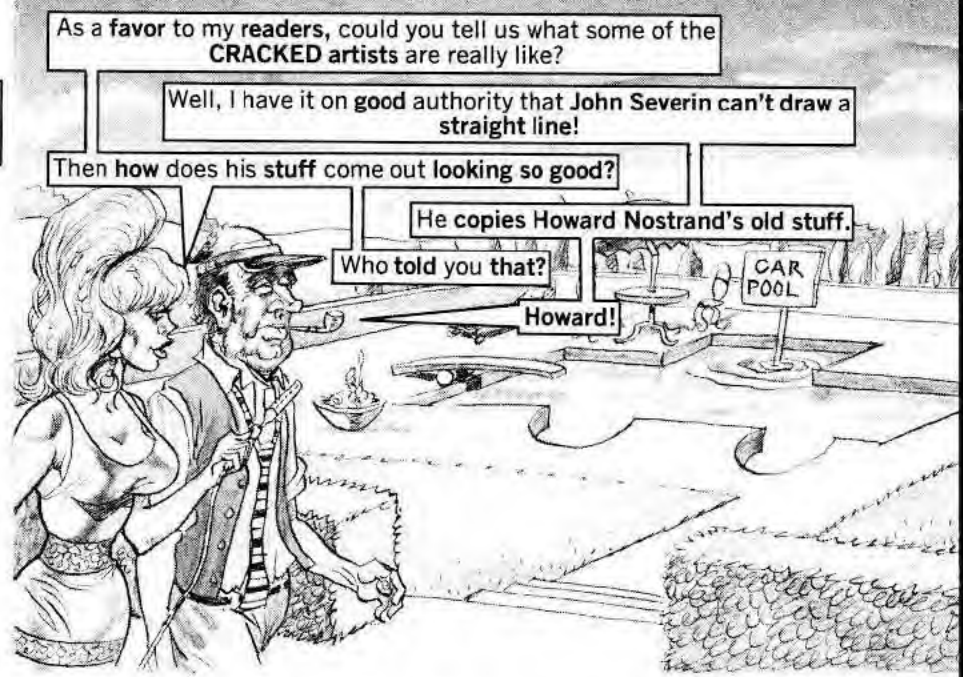

No, I meant firsts in writing.

Oh! Well, I introduced the "Gerbil of the Month" feature where each issue another infamous gerbil from history was profiled. It got thousands of letters.

Funny, I never saw that feature.

That's because we got thousands of letters. Before the first article came out, readers were already complaining about how bad it was.

As a favor to my readers, could you tell us what some of the CRACKED artists are really like?

Well, I have it on good authority that John Severin can't draw a straight line!

Then how does his stuff come out looking so good?

He copies Howard Nostrand's old stuff.

Who told you that?

Howard!

CAR POOL

And Bill Ward? Is he any good?

Judge for yourself. Did you ever see a finer arm?

Why no! And I'm pretty happy with the body he gave me.

I'm pretty happy with the body he gave you too!!!

One last request. Can you tell us what the next CRACKED is going to be?

If you promise not to talk to the competition. I mean if NEWSWEEK ever finds out...

I won't

Yes...

... there'll be 50 pages!

I have it on good authority that in the next CRACKED...

Now that's a hot tip!

And speaking of the next CRACKED, if you'll excuse me; today is the day the newest issue hits the stands.

Oh, I see — and you want to go and greet your fans.

Are you crazy!! — I wanna go and hide until their anger blows over. When they see what they've paid 60¢ for...

I.M. AMORON
You're telling me!

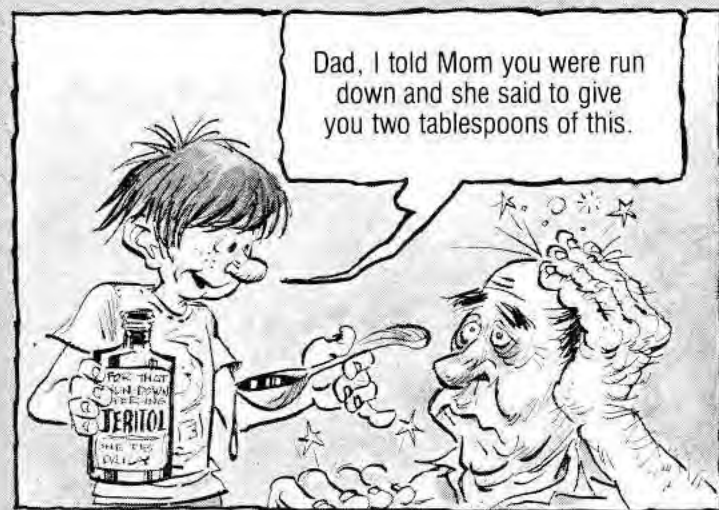

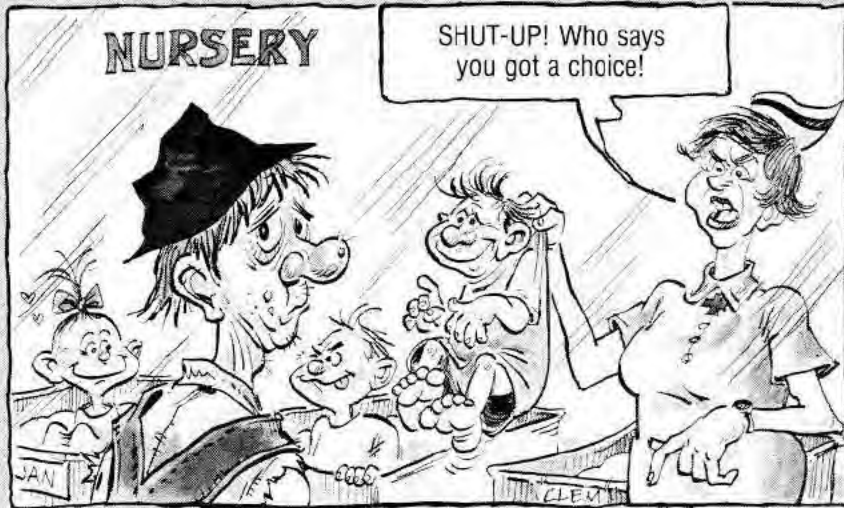

And this is Nanny Dickering hiding out with Mr. I.M. Amoron in some secret closet saying bye until next month.

Nanny — could you move over a little — you're crushing my rubber dwaff.

Sorry.
